APRIL.

Season of sighs perfumed, and maiden flowers,
 Young Beauty's birthday, cradled in delight
 And kept by muses in the blushing bowers
 Where snow-drops spring most delicately white!
 Oh it is luxury to minds that feel
 Now to prove truants to the giddy world,
 Calmly to watch the dewy tints that steal
 O'er opening roses—'till in smiles unfurled
 Their fresh-made petals silently unfold.
 Or mark the springing grass—or gaze upon
 Primeval morning till the hues of gold
 Blaze forth and centre in the glorious sun!
