

a spirit of submission, relief from their difficulty in speaking will undoubtedly be their reward.

A cure is as certain under the Home Cure Course as under the Regular Course of training, though it may take longer time. Success in either case depends entirely on the willingness of the student to prosecute faithfully the instructions given.

In beginning the Home Cure Course, decide, emphatically, to perform your part of the work faithfully and honorably. As certainly as you do this, nature will restore you to normal condition. You cannot overcome your difficulty by force, but you can surrender yourself in obedience to natural law with the delightful result that your impediment will leave you.

In conclusion, I feel fully confident that the most gratifying results will follow an honest endeavour on the part of the student, to whom this volume is consigned.

THE AUTHOR.

PREFACE

THE S

SELF C

CONTR

QUOTA

THE W
MADE C

THE W GENERA
SPECIAL
SPECIFIK