GERMANS RETIRE ACROSS ANCRE

Constant British Pressure Forces Enemy to Seek New Lines.

MANY GET DROWNED

Swollen River Engulfs Bodies of Retreating Troops.

London, Aug. 4.—The following despatch has been received by Reuters from their correspondent at British headquarters: "The importance of the German withdrawal across the Ancre should not be exaggerated. It has been forced by our ceaseless pressure, coupled with the extraordinary difficulty of maintaining communications across the swampy river valley. The real significance of their step is that in this sector Crown Prince Rupprecht's army definitely has passed from offensive to defensive tactics. The threat against Amiens and astride the great Albert road, and to the northwards of the road, is practically gone. The main withdrawal was carried out Thursday night, and must have proved a costly business to the enemy. The Ancre was swollen, and we kept the bridges under a continuous fire, so that they were almost destroyed and most precarious to attempt. The Germans felled trees across the stream and possibly improved some pontoon bridges under cover of the darkness, but it is known that many were drowned in the operation. British Enter Hamel. "Our patrols worked their way yesterday into Hamel. On the west bank of the Ancre no Germans were encountered, but considerable bodies of them were visible on the east bank, between Anthuille and Thiepval. "By yesterday afternoon we had extended our advance southward along the line of the river to Dernancourt, which is cleared of the enemy. Our patrols have been clearing up the situation in Albert, but the ruin of the town is now little more than a great gas and shell trap. "Latest information available in London leaves the situation at Albert doubtful, but it is believed the Germans still hold a portion of the town."

BRITISH PATROLS REACH LINE OF ANCRE RIVER

London, Aug. 4.—The text of the official statement issued by the war office today reads: "Our patrols have reached the Ancre River between Dernancourt and Hamel and are in contact with the enemy on this line. The hostile artillery showed some activity during the night in the sectors north of Bethune and south of Ypres."

GENERAL LOGIE IS BACK IN TORONTO

Many Officers Return, But Invalidated Men of Other Ranks Do Not Come.

About three hundred relatives and friends of soldiers expected home from overseas were at the Union Station at 1:30 o'clock Sunday afternoon when a train arrived with a party of Canadian officers on board, including Major-General W. A. Logie, C.B. There was no sign of the contingent of 200 returned soldiers which had also been expected on this train from New York.

In expectation of the arrival of the large party of soldiers, the band of the Canadian Garrison Band, some 400 men, were drawn up on the station platform and the band played a lively march tune as a welcome. In addition to a large number of motor cars, supplied by the Citizens Voluntary Aid Association, the Toronto Street Railway Company had five special cars in waiting for the transportation up-town of the expected veterans.

General Logie, who has been overseas for several months, in England and France, considered it impossible to speak too highly of the Canadian soldiers who are overseas. "I felt like taking my hat off whenever I saw them in each case at point blank range, and I declared. Asked as to conditions in England, he said, 'The people are in fine fettle and there is plenty of grub.' The general was met by the members of his family, and Major N. P. Kelley and Capt. Lou Scholten, of the Toronto district staff. Major-General Logie, who is a brother of Kelley that he had met his brother. Kelley was seriously gassed in action but the general stated he was now sufficiently recovered to be on active service in England, and would not likely become physically fit to go back to France.

Officers in Party.

The party of returned officers included Major-General W. A. Logie, C.B.; Brig-General J. L. Biggar, C.B.; Major C. A. Boone, Cresscent road, Toronto; Major Robt. Wood, 83 East Bloor street, Toronto; Major S. Cameron, D.S.O., 847 St. Patrick street, C. H. C. Tattersall; Major Fred Smith, Y.M.C.A.; and Capt. Dugald G. Haggart, Toronto. Major Robt. Wood, who is home on furlough after service with the Royal Warwickshire Regiment, has 18 years of military duty to his credit. He reports that there have been no air raids in England since last May and that anyway the only real danger is of a rising importance.

Major G. S. Cameron, D.S.O., of Swift Current, Sask., suffered serious injuries to his left arm, than being hit by shrapnel from a 5.9. He went overseas in 1915 with the 9th Canadian Mounted Rifles, but served with the 123rd Battalion. He was originally a York County man, who participated in 58 bombing raids, dropping 68 bombs in his last engagement, and was killed by a large number of enemy aircraft, of whom he destroyed and downed five more.
