queer question? Well, perhapsbut it's intensely serious.

It means, in other words—Have you made adequate provision for your family in the event of your sudden death?

Not a pleasant thought, maybe, but a far more un-pleasant one is, that the wife and little ones you love and cherish may next week be left penniless and de-pendent upon the charity of friends. But by investing a few dollars a year in an Imperial Home Protection policy you can ensure that they will be comfortably provided for even though you should lie next week. And they deserve that much sacrice a your part—don't they?

Gives His Coal Drivers Union Wages, and Succeeds in Business.

Fair Wage Officer E. N. Crompton, who has just returned from Kingston, where he attended the negotiations between the metal traders and their loyes, which resulted so successfully for both sides, closing a strike which has continued from May 1 this year, expressed the opinion that the coal drivers' strike would soon be settled if both men and employers decided to meet and discuss everything in an amicable spirit. This might be accomplished, and if so, the strike might finish before the end of the week week.

Officials of the union stated that there was no prospect of the strike concluding as yet. They reiterated the statement that they were open to negotiations just so soon as the coal yards showed disposition for them, but would remain out just so long as the yards refused to pay union rates.

the yards refused to pay union rates. Comrade J. Gibbs, a returned solder, who owns a coal yard in the northwest section of the city, expressed the opinion that it was all nonsense for the large combines to tell their men that top-hole wages would spell ruin for their trade, He had several wagons himself, and with these he had succeeded in making business pay while paying his men $25 a week.

In the meantime many hundred drivers are still out, and the strike is as strong as it was two days after it was called, according to the men's representative. A mass meeting may yet be possible between the opposing parties.

SIR SAM HUGHES

ern Ontario Depends on Stable Government.

Sir Sam Hughes, M.P., spoke at a leeting of Conservatives of Southeast oronto, held last night at Victoria Toronto, held last night at Victoria Hall to further the candidature of Lieut. "Jim" Wallace and H. S. Schoffeld. Sir Sam in praising the Hearst administration and its measures said it was a fairly able government. Ability was, however, one of the commonest commodities. You could find it on the street corners, in the stores and in the factory; what the people wanted was stability, and they had that in the Hearst government.

was stability, and they had that in the Hearst government.

After paying a generous tribute to the work of the Orpington Hospital, Sir Sam said the Hearst government had turned its attention to land in Northern Ontario, where there were millions of undeveloped acres, containing nickel and other precious ores. The Hearst government were turning their faces to this great northern land and their back on the United States. (Cheers). He asked them to well mark his words. If the Hearst or any other sound government were in power in Ontario for another ten years and stood by Canada and not the United States, Northern Ontario would be the head of the Canadian dog and not the tail. It would help to make this country the greatest ever. Sir Sam concluded by asking the people to vote for the two Hearst candidates on Oct.

Have No Leader.

Brigadier-General Ross said the Hearst government stood for home, mother and child and would look after all three if returned to power. Many stories were being circulated and mud thrown at the government and caused a certain amount of discontent amongst the people, especially the farmers, who at the present time had no leader. Supposing by a stretch of imagination the farmers obtained a majority in the house, who, he asked, was going to lead them? They had no leader. In Sir William Hearst they had an established leader, and it was better to vote for candidates who supported him.

concurrence in their various divisions, it is believed that the United States agreement will be finally adopted on Canadian railway lines, if it is only for a short period.

Ninety Days' Agreement.

The United States Railway Shopmen, it is reported, in local circles, are not very well pleased with their award, but agreed to accept it for 90 days, during which time the administration would do what it could to reduce the cost of living. Whether this rider will be attached to the Canadian agreement or not is not forecasted. It is not likely that the negotiations in Montreal will occupy a very long time.
