THE CHARGES

A Hyman Street Young Lady the First Sufferer-Lip Badly Swollen.

The kissing bug has made its London debut. The first local victim is Miss Mabel O'Neil, of 291 Hyman street. Last evening, while indoors, a large insect alighted on Miss O'Neil's upper lip. She brushed it off, and thought nothing of it at the time. Before retiring, Miss O'Neil's attention was called by her sister to the fact that her lip was swollen. About 1 o'clock this morning Miss O'Neil awoke with the pain, her lip being inflamed to three times its natural size. Accompanied by her sister and brother she went hurriedly to the office of Dr. Bice, who applied lotions which reduced the swelling. He attributed it to the bite of the kissing bug. There was no other way of accounting for the peculiar symptom.

WANTED HIS WAGES

W. T. Westby Sued by Thomas Meeks -Judgment for the Plaintiff.

Mr. W. T. Westby, of Grosvenor Lodge, West London, was yesterday ordered by R. F. Lacey, J.P., to pay Thos. Weeks $1475 and costs amounting to $8 61. The evidence was heard by Squire Lacey on April 28. Meeks hired with Westby for six months at $14 a month, and left the latter's employ Aug. 2. He was paid wages up to the end of June only and stated that his employer refused to pay him the balance due. When he started to work for Mr. Westby he says he weighed 162 pounds. When he ledt he weighed only 141 pounds. Meeks said he was obliged to leave because he did not get sufficient and proper food. For three weeks he got no butter. One morning he was given for breakfast two slices of stale bread, which he was supposed to eat with water. He asked Mrs. Westby for sugar, which was refused. Complainant also stated that once when meat was furnished after objection was made to the scarcity of the food, the meat had maggots in it.

Jack Stewart, a fellow-employe of Meeks', gave evidence to show that the workmen at Grosvenor Lodge were not well fed. Several times he and Meeks went to Burgess' store to get crackers and cheese, or something else to stay their hunger.

George Good, another witness, had been told by Stewart that half the time the food at Westby's was not fit to eat, and if they (the workmen) didn't keep nagging, they would get nothing.
L. Burgess, the storekeeper, corroborated the statements regarding the visits of the men to the store for food. Mr. W. T. Westby contradicted much of what had been said about the food he furnished his men. They had not complained to him. The statement about "maggots in the meat" he de-The truth of the matter was nied. that three fly-blows were noticed on a ham the day after it was cooked. Mr. Westby held Meeks responsible for the disappearance of two logging chains, valued at $6, and contended that the $6 should be deducted from the amount of wages due. The men were heavy eaters, he said. Puddings didn't stay around long where they were.

NO TRANSFERS. Detroit, Aug. 11.—Early this morning the Detroit Railway conductors be-gan to refuse issuing transfers except on a 5-cent cash fare. They are under orders, they say, to refuse to give the extra ride on any ticket whatever, even the six-for-a-quarter fare. This is said to be in line with the statement that the company, acting with the Citizens' Company, desires to make all the money possible during the remaining life of the franchise. NOTES. The Toronto Trades and Labor Council has passed a resolution condemning the Dominion Government for not enforcing the alien labor law. The tanners and curriers of Quebec are seeking incorporation under the federal laws as a trades union.

POOR PULLMAN!

One of the Twins Finds It Advisable to Try the Gold Cure.

New York, Aug. 11.—George L. Pullman arrived at White Plains last evening to take the Keeley treatment, and he says he is going to make a man of himself. Pullman and his negro valet, Arthur Wells, a man 50 years old, arrived at 6 p.m., and took rooms at Carpenter's boarding house on Mamaroneck avenue. Later they went for a drive.

Today Pullman enters the Keeley Institute to be treated for what he thinks one of the worst diseases known to mankind, and he hopes to be pronounced cured at the end of his six weeks' course. Before going to White Plains, young Pullman went to Long Branch in the morning to bid his mother good-bye. Mrs. Pullman drove her son to the station, and just before the 1:45 train for New York pulled out she threw herself into his arms and wept copiously. George finally broke down himself, and cried like a baby. The two clung to each other for about two

WHY CAPTAIN DREYFUS PROM-ISED TO LIVE.

In the letters of Alfred Dreyfus which have been recently brought out in an English translation, by Harper & Brothers, it is revealed that Capt. Dreyfus, when all hope seemed lost, was resolved to commit suicide, and that he was only restrained from this purpose by the entreaties of his wife. She exacted from him the promise that whatever came, however hopeless and humiliating his lot might become, that he would continue to live for her sake. The letter which was written in connection with this promise shows how keenly Dreyfus was suffering, and what an effort the promise must have cost him. "I will not tell you," he writes, "what I have suffered today. Your grief is great enough already. I will not augment it. "In promising you to live, in promising you to resist until my name is rehabilitated, I have made the greatest sacrifice that a man of deep feel-ing of heart, an upright man, from whom his honor has been taken, can make. My God, let not my physical strength abandon me! My spirit is unshaken; a conscience that has nothing with which to reproach me upholds me, but I am coming to the end of patience and of my physical strength. After having consecrated all my life to honor, never having de-served reproach, to be here, to have borne the most wounding affront that can be inflicted up a soldier! "Oh, my darling, do everything in the world to find the guilty one; do not relax your efforts for an instant.

That is my only hope in the terrible misfortune which pursues me. No one need fear cholera or any summer complaint if they have a bot-tle of Dr. J. D. Kellogg's Dysentery Cordial ready for use. It corrects all looseness of the bowels promptly, and causes a healthy and natural action. This is a medicine adapted for the young and old, rich and poor, and is rapidly becoming the most popular medicine for cholera, dysentery, etc.,
