BANNERMAN FORCES A BITTER FIGHT

Revival of Fierce Obstructive Tactics by the Irish Is Certain.

London, June 13.—Happenings of last week in Parliament afford proof that the policy of the Irish Radical Alliance is utterly played out, and that Campbell-Bannerman will leave the home rule movement in a far worse position than at any time during the political career of Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman. As he is now the oldest member of the House of Commons, that is a pretty long time. In fact, a revival of old-time fierce obstructive tactics is predicted.

Nationalist members have been ominously silent during the past week. They have rejected contemptuously the Government's so-called first installment of home rule, on which great labor had been expended, and suddenly they have seen the measure dropped by the Government. Everybody is asking what will be the next move. Old parliamentary hands can make shrewd guesses. Mr. Gladstone did not propose home rule until Mr. Parnell and his 35 followers were in a position to make the opening of the session impossible on any other terms.

Gladstone's Way Blocked. In spite of the subtle afterthoughts and iridescent emotion by which Mr. Gladstone clothed the exigencies of the circumstances with the dignity of abstract philosophy, the only real explanation of Mr. Gladstone's conversion to home rule and the only argument for Gladstonism that British electors could really understand was that "Ireland blocked the way."

"Will not Ireland block the way again?" is a question which is being flung in the ears of the Premier. Whichever way he turns, the fractious groups which make up his heterogeneous following are all eagerly crying for the moon, and all crying together. They are dreading a revival of Irish obstruction, and they believe that this is why Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman has dropped so many bills which were promised in the King's speech at the opening of the session.

Past Obstructive Method. In Gladstone's times the introduction of the home rule bill was effected by convulsing the House of Commons with obstruction; and by demonstrating to the Government in a fashion sufficiently objective for the plainest voter that, unless home rule was granted, the Government of the British Empire would continue to be shamed and paralyzed at its center.

For eighteen months Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman's promises to the nationalist members kept them under the dead weight of decorum. It was like the leaden cope in which the Plantagenets wrapped the Hebrews, or, put in another way, they had the power of disgracing the mother of parliament by their manners and paralyzing it by their maneuvers, but they decided not to exercise it.

Since Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman became prime minister, the Irish members have acted as a sort of Liberal snowplow. The Premier is still endeavoring to placate them. He has promised to push forward by every possible means an evicted tenants bill, and Mr. Birrell, the twice-thwarted legislator, undaunted by the severe shock he has received, will set himself during recess to a consideration of the Irish university bill.

Irish Members Threaten. These promises are regarded by Nationalist members as soaps to keep them quiet. It has been said of the present Government that they do not look ahead, and that nothing will suffice for them but a dreaded object lesson itself, the actual spectacle of the Irish Nationalist members engaged in throwing the machine of parliamentary government out of gear.

Now, as never, the tide of Irish agitation no sooner ebbs to its lowest than it turns for flood and, as surely as Ireland is under the necessity of making the "measure of the hour" of 1907 is as dead as Daniel O'Connell, so surely is Parliament under the scarcely more agreeable necessity of facing the sequel in a revival of obstruction.

In the lobbies of the House of Commons Irish Nationalist members are plainly telling the followers of the Government that the determining factor of the situation is that the unionists will sink everything to defeat home rule, while the Radicals and other sections would not sink the least of their fads to carry a measure of home rule.

A PRETTY INCIDENT

During Visit of Siam's King to Milan Motor Show.

Milan, June 14.—The King of Siam came to Milan for the express purpose of visiting the International Motor Show, now open.

A pretty incident happened just before the king bade farewell to Florence, whence he came here. A bright boy of 10 came forward to present a lovely mass of rosebuds. Ten years ago, when last in Florence, the king chanced to step into the Church of San Giovanni Battista just as a baptism was about to be solemnized. The monarch desired to act as godfather to the infant, and his wish was acceded to. He was deeply touched on learning that this self-same godchild now stood before him. Embracing the boy, the king kissed him affectionately again and again, and then bestowed upon the lad two gold coins amid the enthusiastic cheers of the bystanders.

It is better to depend upon the returns of a small orchard than a large family tree.

HOSPITAL FOR CITY AND COUNTY BAR OUTSIDERS, COMMITTEE SAY

Financiers Approve of Proposed Agreement for Erection of Tuberculosis Hospital.

The question of the tuberculosis hospital for London and Middlesex county came up for consideration at the regular meeting of the finance committee yesterday afternoon, at which Ald. Beattie (chairman), Stevely, Stevenson, Mayor Judd and City Treasurer Pope were present.

Ald. Stevely had the proposed plans of the hospital, and the basis of the proposed agreement between the city and county was submitted. By it the city is to pay 60 per cent of the cost of construction, and the county 40 per cent, each corporation paying for the cost of treating its own patients, less the grant from the Ontario Government.

Before putting themselves on record as favorable to the agreement, the members of the committee indulged in some discussion as to whether the hospital should be closed to patients from outside counties.

The mayor was strongly in favor of having the hospital for patients from London and Middlesex only.

Ald. Stevely said that before agreeing to admit outside patients the Government should be seen in reference to the effect such a step would have on the grant.

Ald. Beattie was likewise in favor of making the hospital for the city and county only. "If we admit outsiders," he declared, "we will make London the dumping-ground for consumptives from all parts of the Province."

A Source of Trouble. "Yes," added the mayor, "to admit outsiders would cause no end of trouble."

ble. That the hospital is for the city and county only should be stipulated clearly in the agreement. I expect we will have trouble even at that."

On motion of Ald. Stevely, the committee decided to recommend the adoption of the proposed agreement as a basis for further negotiations between the city, the county, and the Provincial Government, and that the committee be given power to arrange any further details with the county, and for the taking of a vote of the people at the next municipal election or for obtaining special Ontario legislation confirming the said agreement at the next session of the Ontario Legislature. Reports are to be made to the council from time to time of all steps taken by the committee.

Collections at Band Concerts.

The general business before the committee was of minor importance. Col. Peters' letter regarding the taking of a collection at Victoria Park at a concert given by the band of the Twenty-sixth Regiment, was received, and the committee decided to write the D. O. C. that at the concert in question the band was not paid by the city for its services.

The application of the East End Baseball League for permission to take a collection at the Queen's Park at a concert to be given there by the Seventh Band was laid over. Ald. Beattie expressed himself as opposed to the principle of allowing collections at concerts which are being given at the expense of the city.

The committee will recommend no action on the request of the water commissioners that special legislation be secured empowering them to handle their own funds. The committee was unanimous on the matter.

A bylaw was passed authorizing the borrowing of $50,000 to meet current expenditures.

METHODISTS WANT MORE PREACHERS

Will Raise $44,000 to Properly Train Young Men for the Ministry.

Toronto, June 14.—Forty-two thousand dollars was pledged today at the Toronto Methodist Conference for the additional educational expenses which the general board feel called upon to entail owing to the urgent need for more ministers. Rev. John W. Graham, the recently-appointed assistant secretary of education, pressed the matter home to the ministers present in a very vigorous address. At the conclusion the unanimous vote of the meeting placed the question of raising the amount upon the shoulders of the individual pastors.

"You cannot prove an alibi in this matter," said Mr. Graham. "We need 150 more students, and all men of quality. If we are only going to keep men who couldn't make more money elsewhere, God help Methodism. An additional income of $44,000 is needed to get trained men apart from bequests and legacies. Remember, we need the money positively and finally. The students are here, and must be provided for. This is no idle dream."

"The individual pastor must be the fulcrum which will lift this debt. Otherwise it won't be lifted. It is incumbent upon him to make a clear presentation of the case to his congregation. And then there is this to consider: If pastors don't give sustenance, and their name is legion, how much influence can they put into an appeal? There is eloquence in the minister's name heading a subscription list. Then again, if a minister can evidence no interest in the institution where he received his training and influence, how can he arouse in the layman?"

"How easy a task it should be for every minister from Halifax to Vancouver to prove to his constituency that the institution that has trained him in the just ways of God is worthy of confidence and support."

"The day has gone by when we can divorce mind from heart, and knowledge from vital piety."

Referring to the loan system whereby probationers were able to discharge their debt in periodical payments two years after ordination, Mr. Graham confessed it was not a success, and was forming a serious problem. "The story of a debt," he said, "hangs over a man in every way. It prevents him stocking the shelves of his library with useful books, and he feels a continual sense of humiliation. Paying a probationer $100 for 20 weeks' missionary work in the summer months fulfilled two objects. It expanded the cause and enabled him to complete the college course without a burden of debt."

"Some say it isn't enough," said Mr. Graham. "Well, it's more than we used to do. Besides, Methodist ministers have to practice economy the rest of their life. They might as well get in training early."

Rev. Dr. Jas. Henderson, associate secretary of missions, about to return to the pastorate, was presented with an appreciative address on behalf of the board of missions by Mr. Justice MacLaren.

IN THE GREAT DAY OF GOD'S WRATH

Only They Who Trust in Jesus Will Be Able to Stand the Ordeal.

The largest crowd that has attended a week-night service in the Jubilee Rink was the one that gathered last evening. The meeting was also the most fruitful in results, if the number who indicated their desire to become followers of Christ is any criterion.

After the song service and prayer by Rev. Mr. A. Brown, Mr. J. O. Boone, of New York, and Mr. Duncan, of Egerton, Street Baptist Church choir, each sang a solo in excellent style. Rev. Dr. Wharton read Psalm xx. Rev. G. H. McAllister, in a few well-timed remarks, urged the audience to "worship God in the collection," and then Mr. H. George, of the choir, and Mr. E. Jackson (piano) played the music of "The Glory Song," as a duet, the audience joining heartily in the chorus. Rev. E. R. Black offered prayer, and Mr. J. O. Boone by request sang "The Crowning Day is Coming."

Sorry To Leave London.

Before beginning his short sermon, Rev. Dr. Wharton said he could not help feeling sorry that he was getting near the end of his work in London. He spoke of the hearty co-operation of the local ministers, and of the cordial and loyal way in which he had been treated by his old-time friends and co-workers. He said he had been in London for only one thing in London he did not like—that was the weather, which he knew they could not control.

Mr. Wilson spoke a few words about the local branch of the "Prayer Circle," which had for some time previous to these meetings been pleading for a revival, and the results of these meetings showed that their prayers were being answered.

The Day of God's Wrath.

Rev. Dr. Wharton took for his text, Revelations, vi, 17: "For the great day of his wrath hath come, and who shall be able to stand?" Dr. Wharton said in his text.

"I do not think we look often enough at the other side of the gospel message—the alternative of neglecting the offer of salvation through Christ. It would seem as if there were several great periods marked off in the story of God. There is God's solitude, when he was alone. Then came the creation, when God said, 'Let there be light,' and behold it was very good. Then there was a period of gloom, when man fell—a moonless night of deep darkness, with only one star. But that star was the star of Bethlehem, which heralded a new day—the day of mercy. We have been living in that day—the day of mercy. We have been living in that day; but it seems to me as if we were drawing near its evening, and I fancy I see signs of Christ coming. Then there will be still another day—the great day of God's wrath."

Who Shall Be Able to Stand? "Don't delude yourselves, my friends, with the idea that God is so loving that he will not punish the guilty. God is good, but he is a just God. Imagine that tomorrow is God's great day of reckoning; then who shall be able to stand?"

"Certainly the infidel will not—the man who has laughed in the face of God—the man who takes from us our only prop, faith and hope. The unbeliever, who has refused a thousand offers of salvation and disregarded every warning, will not be able to stand. The procrastinator will not be able to stand that day, for it will come upon him 'like a thief in the night, when the day of grace has fled.'"

"In that great day of God's wrath those only can stand who are able to look justice in the face and say, 'My sins have been atoned for.' Christ says to the believer, 'I have canceled your debt, I have paid it all.' He says to the sinner, 'Give me your heart.' It is
