

THAW IS BOUND FOR MATTEAWAN

New York Regards Him as Booked for Madhouse.

CHANGES IN THE MILLIONAIRE

Prisoner Has Flourished Under Rigid Discipline of the New York Tombs.

New York, Jan. 25.—If all the words written about Harry Thaw were placed end to end they would go clear round the earth. This applies to his first trial. The trial is a stale dish in New York, and so far as the newspapers are concerned Harry Thaw takes his place on an inside page among the lesser happenings. So hard is it in this town to warm over again a nine-days' wonder. St. Paul observed about Athens that the people ever demanded "some new thing." It is the same way in New York—only more so.

That public opinion has decided that the young man is leading the straight for the criminal insane—may have something to do with the general lack of interest in the case, but the fact remains that there is no curiosity, no morbid crowd of sensation seekers, and no police beating them back with their batons. Even the camera fiend has lost zest, and the leading characters in the tragedy may come and go with never a fear of being stopped. Excitement over the Thaw trial exists largely in the minds of correspondents, who have outside newspapers to supply and who don't like to see a good thing get away. The drum-beating has to be kept up even after the show is over.

Women Present.

It might have been expected that during the two days Evelyn Thaw was telling her story the court room would be thronged, but truth compels the admission that it was only comfortably filled, and that nobody much was there who didn't have the right. There were newspaper men, and artists and professional men in the audience, but there were only three women present, and they had business there. They were newspaper women, and their duty was to dig up sob copy for the yellow press. It was a hard matter, no doubt, for eyes have been squeezed dry of tears for Evelyn Thaw and no feeling is left now except one of boredom that she should have had to tell her disgusting story over again. It was a great relief when the little blue-clad figure left the witness box.

A man behind me said something about a brazen face, another, more forgiving, called her "a loyal, clever little woman." Truth lies, perhaps, between these extremes. Her answers to Mr. Jerome were pertinent, rather than clever, and her manner lacked distinction, but she did the best she could for her husband, and the sacrifice of her modesty on his behalf seems to cover a multitude of sins. All events everybody was glad when her ordeal was over, and she even came in for some pity for her hard luck in falling into the wrong hands when as an angel child she couldn't be expected to know her way about.

Mr. Jerome imported into his voice a tone of contempt for Thaw and his wife to which Mr. Littleton objected. What Mr. Littleton said substantially was that no defense could answer a sneer and that Mr. Jerome was deliberately trying to influence the jury by reading extracts from Evelyn Thaw's evidence at the former trial in accents of disbelief. Perhaps Mr. Jerome was. Perhaps he took this way to show his scorn for feather-headed people who can be carried off their feet by the feverish gaiety of Broadway. Perhaps he was scourging the vicious pleasures of the idle rich. Or, perhaps he was just pursuing the usual methods of prosecuting attorneys and making out his strong case against the prisoner as he could. But whatever he was doing and whatever he meant by it, Mr. Littleton objected, and his objection was overruled, and Mr. Jerome went on despising the precious pair to the end of the chapter.

Harry Thaw is a changed man. At the first trial he was the leading man. In a cause celebre, the head of a world-moving tragedy, and the defense, dictated by his vanity, was brain storm. This time, he is the prisoner at bar, a man charged with murder, and the fear of death is in his heart. It was a close call that first trial. It might have been the electric chair instead of a disagreement. This time the family council has its way. All this a man holds dear for his life, and life in the Matteawan asylum is to a man of Thaw's temperament, better than no life at all. The defense is, therefore, plain insanity, with no frills, and Thaw will have to take his medicine, whatever it is. Hope says that he is sane, as you will remember, when it led him to kill a man. Meanwhile, whether Thaw's disease of mind is curable or not, the defense of insanity goes ahead famously. It looks as if Mr. Littleton would prove that his client is a madman, and there his responsibility ends.

Mr. Littleton, one observes, doesn't

ANY WEAKNESS IN YOUR BACK? Sometimes you experience pain and weakness without much suffering. Later on the pain will surely come. The trouble can be stopped now by rubbing on Nerviline—rub it in deeply over the spine and then put on a Nerviline Porous Plaster. These remedies you will find wonderful and quick relief. They will spare you from an attack of Lumbago which is the outcome of neglected pain in the back or side. For all muscular pains, strains, and weakness, Folson's Nerviline and Nerviline Plasters have no equal. Refuse substitutes.

have much to do with the man whose life he is fighting for. Thaw sits three lawyers away from his chief counsel—it is, of course, a privilege that he is not placed in the dock—and it seems to be Mr. Littleton's idea to keep him at that distance as much as possible. When he tries to get nearer by way of a question or a suggestion Mr. Littleton waves him back or brushes him aside or calmly overlooks him altogether. For which no blame attach to Mr. Littleton. He has to keep his mind free to attend to his case, and not to share Harry Thaw's fidgets. Thaw doesn't sit still a minute. He is an uneasy neighbor for Assistant Counsel Peabody, who takes all his whispering in at his left ear and lets them out at the other. Prison has done Thaw a great deal of good. He has been obliged to live clean, and the effect is apparent. He has a powerful frame, a body that is to exercise and one's fancies that a protracted course of plain food, good morals, and hard work might restore him to normal. His face bears marks of strain and old dissipation, but it is a better, brighter face than it was in the last trial. Strange as it may seem there is a vague resemblance to Evelyn Thaw's face. Husbands and wives as we know, grow very like each other.

Those Staring Eyes. Thaw's eyes are his most striking feature. They are large, staring, vacant. The eyes have been called the windows of the soul. Behind Thaw's windows there seem to be not much but emptiness. They are bulging eyes and they are made more prominent by heavy eyebrows and an overhanging forehead. This overhanging forehead may account for Thaw's eccentricities. He may be crazy at all. He may be troubled with excess of imagination. A disordered imagination has led to ruin before now. Rich young men about town who marry chorus girls should not yield to their imaginations. The man who weds any past but his own has more need to be a philosopher.

The defense says Thaw is mad, that he is the victim of convergent heredity. If he had been a genius we would have called him "the heir of all the ages." And there's the difference.

BRADSTREET ON TRADE SITUATION

Montreal trade reports to Bradstreet's say: General trade here continues to show something of a quiet tone. While it is just somewhat early to state positively just what the whole state of the next few months will be, it may be taken for granted that the volume of business will be hardly up to the standard set by the same season last year. Orders, however, are coming in fairly well. Continued lack of cold weather in most parts of the country has acted against the movement of winter lines. Discount sales have been general among the retail trade of this city, and outside of this business has been quiet. The drygoods trade continues to report a good outlook for the spring and summer business. Textile mills are well satisfied with the amount of orders on hand and prices still hold firm. The grocery trade is showing an improved tone, although it is still somewhat behind the movement usual at this time of the year. Country produce and sugar continues firm in tone. General business is still affected by the tightness in money. Manufacturers are still inclined to observe caution in all directions. While nearly all lines of trade are to a greater or less extent affected, one of the most notable examples is that of the clothing business. Cancellations have been heavy. The retail business in this line is dull. Present business is to a considerable extent owing to the way of reduction sales. The manufacturers are inclined to be hopeful, however, that early spring will see great improvements in this Canada. Collections from Eastern Canada are generally slow, while from the west are fair to good, as compared with those of previous years. Country produce is coming forward fairly well and prices hold with prices unchanged.

Toronto trade reports to Bradstreet's say: There has been little change in trade here during the past week. The volume of business moving does not show any marked improvement. The outlook is somewhat more encouraging. Travelers are sending in a fair run of orders and they report that, though buyers may, for the time being, hold off slightly, the retail trade of next spring should be good and that the re-order business should set in early. Clothing manufacturers report trade quiet. Retailers are holding many discount sales in this line. The fur business is also dull. The continued quietness is supposed to be largely responsible for this. Clothiers look for an early improvement in conditions. The drygoods sorting trade is light and may be expected to continue so unless cold weather comes to stay. So far the season has been too open to much help the business in heavy goods. The outlook for spring trade is bright. Although the ordering for spring is now light, a general resumption of activity is expected by the middle of April. A good volume of business is reported to be coming in. While the spring may not see such an extent of building as was the case last year, considerable activity is looked for along this line, and there will be a resultant demand for building hardware. Other lines of industry are already showing improvement. In such lines as jewelry and other luxuries prospects are good. Travelers report they are doing a business well up to average years, and they expect these branches will partake in the general revival looked for in a month or two. Groceries are moving fairly well. Prices hold steady to firm. Country retail trade is fair. Receipts of produce are not large. Hides and tallow are quiet and unchanged. The wool market is very dull.

Winnipeg reports say: General business holds a steady tone here although the volume has shown little improvement during the past week. Sleight is generally good and country trade is fair to good. Collections are generally satisfactory. A good European market is being found for the low grade wheat that was harvested this year and large quantities of it are being rushed to Atlantic ports. Spring business promises well, although orders are now inclined to be light.

Vancouver and Victoria reports say: Wholesale and retail trade is fairly active in all parts of the province, and collections are generally satisfactory. The outlook for provincial industries is good. Mining returns for last year showed an increase of over three-quarters of a million dollars against the year before, despite the fact that the boundary mines were shut down owing to a shortage of coke for nearly three months of the year. Speedy improvement is looked for in the lumber trade. A fairly big cut has been arranged for this winter.

Quebec: Travelers, as a rule, are sending in fair orders and the outlook continues favorable. Collections are much about the same as the preceding week. City trade is moderately active, cheap sales being in force. Activity is noticeable amongst the shoe manufacturers.

Hamilton reports to Bradstreet's say: Trade holds a quiet tone, although retailers are making efforts to push reduction sales. Spring goods are moving and there is a good tone to orders. Receipts of produce are light. Collections are fair.

London reports say: Cold weather is wanted to help the winter movement of retail lines. Trade has had a slow tone during the past week or two. It is understood, however, that stocks are heavy. Country trade is fairly good and produce is coming forward well.

Ottawa trade reports to Bradstreet's say: General business continues quiet, but wholesalers are looking forward to an excellent business early in the spring. Collections are only fair. Country trade has a good tone.

ASLEEP FOR OVER THREE YEARS

Cause of Long Sleep Proves a Mystery To the German Doctors.

Berlin, Jan. 25.—Professor Eulenburger, the eminent specialist in nervous diseases, this afternoon gave a remarkable description before the German Physiological Association here of a Government official named Arnhem, who has been continuously asleep since June 10, 1904.

The professor attributes Arnhem's strange condition to a blow to the back of the head caused by a fall. Arnhem's medical attendants at that time were unable to discover any injury to the brain, but ten days later he fell asleep, and he has been sleeping continuously ever since.

Professor Eulenburger says the patient is lying on his back in bed, the head being slightly inclined to the right side. The forehead is wrinkled, as though the sleeper were disturbed by a bad dream. The limbs can be freely moved. The skin has lost its sensibility. Deep needle pricks do not produce the slightest effect, and other incisions in the flesh, painful for normal beings, do not disturb the sleeper. Deafening noise made close to his ears fails to arouse him, and dazzling lights turned on the eyes are likewise ineffectual. The sleeper is regularly fed. He slowly chews the food placed in his mouth, and it is swallowed. During the last forty-three months Arnhem has never once opened his eyes, spoken a syllable, or even been the least sign of consciousness. Sometimes Arnhem's wife, who tend him incessantly with patient care, removes him from his bed, clothes him, and places him in an armchair. In this position he presents an uncanny appearance. He is ghastly pale and motionless, and recalls a figure placed in a natural position in a wax-work show. The belief that it is a human being.

Professor Eulenburger considers a sudden awakening is still possible. Many medical experts have visited Arnhem, and watched the sleeper for long periods without coming to any definite conclusion as to the cause of his long sleep.

NINETY DAYS

Man Who Posed as an English Lord Sentenced at Toronto.

Toronto, Jan. 25.—George Woodman, an Englishman, who had posed as a Lord, was sentenced to 90 days in jail by the police magistrate this morning. He had a suitcase full of jewelry and some other articles from the man with whom he had been staying last September. Then, he went to Detroit, where he passed as Lord Devonshire, and lived in style. He was arrested there the other day and was brought to Toronto by a detective yesterday. Woodman admitted his guilt, and also admitted having posed as a lord.

Will Convene at Toronto and Discuss Means of Carrying Out Law.

Toronto, Jan. 25.—The suggestion has been made among the license inspectors of the Province of Ontario, that a convention in Toronto during the coming session of the Legislature. This is an entirely new idea, but it seems to be meeting with very general favor and already has the approval of a large number. It is likely the convention will be held in February or March. The question of uniform enforcement of the law in all probability will be taken up as well as the matter of interpretation of some of the clauses of the license act. An effort will be made to secure an address by Hon. Mr. H. H. Rogers or Mr. H. H. Rogers, immediately connected with the department, which has the license under their control.

TOOK BABIES OVER BORDER

New Phase of Lying-In Hospital Situation Revealed By U.S. Investigation.

Detroit, Jan. 25.—The News says: That federal prosecutions against the keepers of some of the local lying-in hospitals may result from the investigation conducted into their methods by the United States authorities is now a probability. The investigation has revealed another startling phase of a most deplorable situation. Not only have local hospitals been conducting a traffic in unborn children, but they also have made a business of bringing into this country, from Canada, babies born to unfortunate girls in the Dominion.

It is on this latter condition that the federal authorities hope to bring the proprietors to justice. It would be necessary for the Government to prove that these proprietors were convicting with the unfortunate women in having their children brought here. They have been doing so, is not doubted. To do it would be a more difficult proposition.

Take Fees for Adopting Children. The investigation conducted by the local immigration authorities brings to light the fact that the proprietors of local lying-in hospitals have been accepting all the babies born to Canadian girls in the Dominion. It also brings into question the methods not only of lying-in hospitals that have been in bad odor for some time, but also the methods of at least one institution that never knew what a first-class reputation.

In the case of one lying-in hospital, the investigation shows that within seven months, eleven babies were brought in from Canada for adoption. The proprietors of the hospital, who were unable to discover any injury to the brain, but ten days later he fell asleep, and he has been sleeping continuously ever since.

Relatives Become Frightened. A child born in Sarnia was brought here by its grandmother. It was placed in a lying-in hospital. The child was brought to Detroit and placed in a lying-in hospital. It died eight days after.

His holiday at Biarritz failed to build up his strength, and the premier will be obliged carefully to husband himself during the coming parliamentary session. Whoever secondary business will permit the premier will absent himself from parliament, leaving the conduct of affairs in the Commons to Herbert H. Asquith and Edward Grey.

While Sir Henry will, for the present, avoid all functions of a non-parliamentary character, the necessity of replacing the late Sir J. Lawson Walton, the attorney-general, together with the advancing age and ill-health of two of the members of the cabinet, revives the rumors of a possible rearrangement of the cabinet, which, unless the premier's health improves, may result in his elevation to the peers and the promotion of Winston Churchill, under secretary for the colonies, to cabinet rank.

The Right Hon. James Alexander Campbell, brother of Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, is lying seriously ill and is not expected to recover.

The Bank of Nova Scotia and the Sovereign Bank of Canada, both of which are now in liquidation, but a few points, and on this account it was thought by the leading officials of the Sovereign Bank that an arrangement might be reached. The directors and management of the Nova Scotia, however, decided, after investigation, that they could not accept the offer. Prior to the Ontario bank being taken over by the Bank of Montreal it was similarly offered to the Royal Bank of Canada.

WAR OPENED ON UNION PACIFIC

United States Takes First Step To Break Up Alleged Monopoly of Harriman's

Washington, Jan. 25.—Attorney-General Bonaparte today directed that a bill in equity be filed to set aside the control by the Union Pacific Railroad Company and its subsidiary corporations of the Southern Pacific, and the San Pedro, Los Angeles, and Salt Lake Road. Also to have declared illegal the ownership by the Union Pacific or the Oregon Short Line, of stock in the Santa Fe, the Great Northern and North Pacific, all of said lines being competitors of the Union Pacific.

The attorney-general today issued an official statement to this effect, and after referring to the extended investigation by the interstate commerce commission into the relations existing between the various lines of road engaged in trans-continental traffic, says:

"From the evidence so adduced and from independent evidence the department has arrived at the conclusion that the stockholders of the Union Pacific and its subsidiary companies in the other corporations mentioned above, is in violation of the Sherman act. The department regards the suit as of first importance, as it is sought by means thereof to break up a substantial monopoly of transportation business between the Missouri River on the east, and the entire Pacific coast, south of Portland, on the west. Aside from the railway companies above named the other defendants in the suit are the Farmers' Loan and Trust Company, of New York, which is the depository of all the stock of the San Pedro Road under a contract by which it is required to give proxies to such persons as may be named by Mr. Harriman and Mr. Clark for a period of years. There are also the following individual defendants, who are alleged to have conceived and carried out the conspiracy complained of, to wit: E. H. Harriman, Jacob H. Schiff, Otto H. Kahn, James Stillman, Henry C. Frick, Henry H. Rogers and Wm. A. Clark.

While naming the individual defendants the statement makes no mention of any intention to prosecute any of these officials personally in any criminal proceedings.

"C. B." VERY FEEBLE

British Premier in Poor Condition To Manage Approaching Session.

London, Jan. 25.—There is some anxiety in political circles over the health of the premier, Sir Henry Campbell-Bannerman, who is confined to his rooms with a cold which he caught since his return from France. He was unable to attend a meeting of the party council at Windsor, Saturday, and it is understood that he is still feeble.

His holiday at Biarritz failed to build up his strength, and the premier will be obliged carefully to husband himself during the coming parliamentary session. RECORD OF A GREAT MEDICINE

A Prominent Montreal Woman Tells How Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound Completely Cured Her.

The great good Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound is doing among the women of America is attracting the attention of many leading scientists, and thinking people generally.

"I am a married woman, and I was unable to sleep, and I became very nervous and had shooting pains through the abdomen and pelvic organs, with bearing-down pains and constant headaches, causing me much misery. The monthly periods became more and more painful, and I became a burden to my family instead of a help and pleasure. Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound cured me within three months. Soon after I began using it I felt a change for the better, and at the time of my next period I noticed a great difference. The pain gradually diminished until I was well. I am stronger and look better than I did before I was married, and there is great relief in the house over the wonders your medicine worked." Mrs. M. A. C. Leduc, 732 Cadieux St., Montreal, Quebec.

"If you have suppressed or painful periods, weakness of the stomach, indigestion, bloating, pelvic catarrh, nervous prostration, dizziness, faintness, 'don't care' and 'want-to-be-left-alone' feeling, excitability, backache or the blues, these are sure indications of female weakness, or some derangement of the organs. In such cases there is one tried and true remedy—Lydia E. Pinkham's Vegetable Compound.
