details of such an important contract before signing it. They are not sat-Isfied with it, and intend to send it to the people again.

"We should simply, as aldermen, be a parcel of fools to sign a contract that is," said Ald. Armstrong, "so imperfect as it is in its details. I have found Mr. Beck a man of great energy and patience, and yet when after three or four years of such close study he presents such a proposition to us to be rushed through on a moment's notice, and cannot give us answers to simple questions, it is well to investigate before we spend such large sum of the people's money. We do not propose to be browbeaten by Mr. Beck in the matter."

Ald. Armstrong said Mr. Beck was to blame in bringing personalities into the campaign. No one had mentioned Mrs. Beck at the meetings before Mr. Beck did himself. Mr. Mc-Evoy was too much of a gentleman to wish to drag any lady's name into a discussion of this kind, and not until Mr. Beck did so was the lady's name mentioned. No word of ours could make the evidence stronger than the written words over their own signatures of the man who was the principal in this great cure, and his friends through whom he was introduced to and helped to procure Psychine. John A. Galbraith is a well-to-do farmer, living in Plympton Township, about five miles from Forest. He enjoyed good health until early in 1906, when he had a severe attack of pleuro-pneumonia, which apparently broke up his whole system. In speaking of the case to the Forest Free Press he said: "I did not seem able to gain any strength after the attack of pneumonia. One doctor said that tuberculosis had developed, that I could not recover, and advised me to settle all my affairs as quickly as possible. This was the condition I was in when my pastor, Rev. C. E. Burrell. of the Baptist church, advised me to try Pyschine, and procured for me a trial bottle. This was in May, 1906, and at that time I was reduced in weight to 120 pounds. The Psychine did good from the start, and I continued until I had used about $15 worth from Scott's Drug Store, Forest. I gained in weight at the rate of half a about $15 worth from Scott's Drug Store, Forest. I gained in weight at the late of half pounds day until I went up to 150 pounds, steadily regaining my strength and feeling better. I actually had to have my clothes enlarged, not through any corpulency, but owing to a putting on of good flesh all over. I give this statement for the purpose of showing how Psychine has probably saved my life, and hope that others may be likewise benefited by its use."

H. J. Pettypiece, Esq., of the Forest Free Press, says: "The Galbraith cure is considered a miracle here. I know his is considered a miracle nere. I know his case was considered hopeless by his physician, and that something had pulled him together. I have only just learned that it was Psychine.
