WHAT'S IN A NAME?
When fame had crowned her Queen of Song,
She never moved without a throng
Of fat men, thin men, old and callow, Bewhiskered, beardless, ruddy, sallow,
Like childhood's rhyme, of "Lawyer,
chief,
Rick, man, poor man, beggarman,
Die!"
One day she, laughing, gave the key
"They say they went to school with me!"
—Judge.

CAUSE FOR PAUSE.
Your eyes are the bonniest blue, dear,
Your features and figure are true,
Your heart—ah, I know 'twould be true
dear,
Should I say to you, "Darling, be true."
But, alas! there's a frightening fear,
Dear,
That will not allow me to speak,
You are spending a thousand a year,
Dear,
I am making twelve dollars a week.
