MOST FAMOUS HERESY TRIAL OF MODERN TIMES HIS HAT OF REV. DR. CRAPSEY

BATAVIA, N. Y., April 17.—The first trial for heresy in years in the protestant episcopal church, is scheduled to begin here today, when the Rev. Algernon Sidney Crapsey, D. D., for 25 years rector of Saint Andrew's church in Rochester, will be placed on trial before an ecclesiastical court, charged with utterances from the pulpit of that church, and in print, which are alleged to be in violation of the tenets of the protestant episcopal faith.

The second and last charge in the presentment is that Dr. Crapsey violated his ordination vows by failing to conform to the doctrine, discipline and worship of the protestant episcopal church. Under the second specification of the first charge, the statements attributed to him in his December sermon are those: First—"Jesus was born of parents belonging to the middle class." Second—"He was born of a simple father and mother."

The truth or falsity of the church's doctrine is not to be argued at the trial. The sole question is whether the things that Dr. Crapsey said are contrary to those doctrines and did he so intend them to be. It is understood that Dr. Crapsey's defenders will hold that, under a liberal interpretation of the church's doctrine, he is not guilty of intentional denial of the tenets, there being but one punishment, dismissal from the church. The complaint against Dr. Crapsey was filed by ten ministers of the western New York diocese. Bishop Walker appointed a special committee of five to investigate it. The committee reported, three to two, against taking any further action against the accused. However, the standing committee of the diocese believed it for the welfare of the church to have a trial and against Cornelius Good by consent, Order granted. C. N. Skinner, K. C., for Good.

BUT HE DOESN'T TAKE THE HINT.

FINE WEATHER AND VERY HEAVY VOTE

It would seem that the aldermanic candidates had some kind of a working agreement with the weather controller, for a more favorable day for the holding of an election, it would be hard to find. A bright, balmy, sunshiny day, and plenty of candidates to choose from made election day this year more than usually interesting. The voting started early, in fact almost immediately on the opening of the polls, and all indications point to a record in the number of votes cast. A visit to the various polling booths this morning revealed a crowd of "willing workers" representing various candidates and interests. They were all hard at it, with a plentiful supply of ballots marked in various ways, and they worked industriously for their candidates. The aldermanic aspirants drove from one ward to another, and directed the fight, and all evinced a warm interest in the contest. They all seemed confident, and expressed the opinion that when the ballots were counted they would be on top. In the majority contest the general feeling was that the fight lay between Frink and Sears, and that it would be pretty close. For alderman at large there were all kinds of guesses and from the varied combination of names that were talked of, it would seem that it was going to be a very close margin by which the winners would be elected. The three cornered fight in Prince and Lansdowne wards seem likely to be very close, while in the other wards the chances for the present aldermen seemed bright. The combination representatives were however, working in a quiet way, and it is impossible to judge what the result of their efforts will be. The inevitable election cigar was everywhere in evidence but this morning at least there seemed to be a lack of "filthy lucre" though this commodity may make its appearance later in the day when the battle is drawing to a close. This reference to monetary considerations does not mean that the scribes were looking for anything of the kind, "Oh no, far be it from us."

PRESIDENT SKINNER TALKS OF EXHIBITION

President Skinner of the Exhibition Association, is very enthusiastic about the success of this year's show. He says it will be the aim of the management this year to have everything new that it is possible to get. "We want to have it so that the people won't come down and say—'Well it's the same old exhibition; if you see one, you see them all.'"

THE TIMES NEW REPORTER

THE MAYOR'S GRIEF. His Worship Mayor White said to the Times new reporter this morning that the saddest thought in connection with his retirement from office was that he would not have the privilege of showing Prince Arthur around the town. "I wanted to take him to the various points of interest myself," said the mayor. "I wanted to watch his budding interest and rapidly expanding joy as we strolled about together. Perhaps I should not say it myself, after being mayor so long, but we have many sources of civic pride. There's the pavement on Prince William street, for example, and the sidewalks. There are the fences on vacant lots, the signs on street corners, the gutters and crossings, the dumps, and the general sanitary condition of many districts.

NO FURTHER NEED OF IT.

Not a street last week for treatment. On a man suffering with great pain in his head went to a doctor's office on Charlotte street and the doctor observed that the man held his head between his hands. "Well, my man, what can I do for you?" "I have an awful head-just feel as if my brain would come out." "Well," said the doctor, "I suppose I will have to get you a new set."
