PUGSLEY VS. THE N. B. COAL AND RAILWAY CO.

Demurrer Allowed With Costs—Now Remains for Attorney-General to Ask for an Accounting, if He Desires

In the chancery division of the supreme court yesterday afternoon, Chief Justice Barker delivered judgment in the case of Hon. William Pugsley vs. The New Brunswick Coal and Railway Company. His honor allowed the demurrer, which means that the case is thrown out of court. He reviewed the case at some length, making special reference to the investigation into the affairs of the company by the commission of which Mr. Justice Landry was the chairman, and which contended that more than $135,000 could not be accounted for.

In the hearing of the case decided yesterday, Dr. Pugsley's counsel argued that a direct charge had been made against the minister, and that his client was entitled to an accounting when various sums of money claimed by Mr. Pugsley had been erroneously omitted from the findings of the commission, could be accounted for. He felt that Mr. Pugsley had been accused in the following section of the commission's report: "We believe the directors of the company, and especially the ex-officio directors, are responsible to the province for an accounting. They should be called upon to submit an account showing the expenditure of $938,799.75 or at least that portion of it supplied by the province. What steps should be taken to enforce this finding, we hardly feel called upon to determine."

Dr. Pugsley, in view of this statement took the initiative, and asked that an account be taken of the receipts and expenditures of all subsidies and other monies, and of all business connected with the company's affairs. Mr. Justice Barker, in his judgment says that he does not consider the report binding on anyone, nor does he consider that any direct charges were made against any certain person. He considered that while the principal could investigate the agent, the agent had no grounds on which to ask for an investigation of the affairs of the principal. This he considered was the position of Dr. Pugsley and the railway company. The chief justice pointed out that a bill properly filed would be in order for an accounting. This means that it now remains for the attorney general to demand the investigation. It has been pointed out that the attorney general had no desire, could have made himself a party to the case along with Dr. Pugsley, which would have insured the bill being presented in the proper form.

FIGHT PICTURE MEN SENT UP FOR TRIAL

On Obscenity Charge—Fines Struck Against Them for Exhibiting Pictures Without a License

The case against the five men charged with showing the motion pictures of the Jeffries-Johnson fight in the Queen's rink without a license contrary to the law, and also showing pictures which tended to corrupt morals, was practically brought to a close last evening after a most interesting session of about three hours' duration. On the first account, that of showing the pictures without a license, Robert J. Armstrong, the manager of the rink; Charles Dininger, a representative of the moving picture company, and J. O. Dooley, a ticket taker and announcer at the show, were all found guilty and a fine of $30 or twenty days in jail was struck against each one of them. As there were three separate charges on this account against them, these fines in all amounted to $90 each. All of the cases are to be appealed. The same charges against Potts and Daley, the two young men who were employed in the rink, were not disposed of, their cases being postponed until Wednesday afternoon. In the obscenity charge, which was the more serious of the two, all five were sent up on trial to appear at the sitting of the supreme court which opens on Tuesday. They were all released on bail, which was made very light. Potts, Daley and Armstrong, belonging to the city, were dismissed on their own recognizances and Dooley and Dininger, being outsiders, had to go sureties for $500 each. Dooley and Dininger entered upon their own recognizances for $500 each and Lawyers Baxter and Raymond assumed the additional amount.

At the evening session Frank Coleman was examined, after which Mr. Mullin asked for dismissal of his client, contending that the show had been properly conducted, and he argued further that the mayor had no right to cancel the license granted. His honor thought that the matter was one which rested almost solely with the mayor, and in his opinion he believed the defendants guilty and fines of $30 each were therefore struck against Armstrong, Dininger, and Dooley. The preliminary hearing in the case of the five men, charged with obscenity was then dealt with. No evidence was offered, but argument of counsel was heard, and it was quite lively. In addressing the court, Mr. Raymond said that it was strange that the police could visit the rink and find nothing immoral in the show, but that a clergyman went there, and because he was looking for it, saw more than was really represented. At this Mr. Wilson objected, and a few compliments were exchanged between the lawyers as to the truthfulness of each. Mr. Raymond asked for the dismissal of the case. Mr. Baxter also contended that the pictures were not immoral and asked for dismissal of his clients, Armstrong and Potts. His honor thought otherwise, and committed the defendants to trial, allowing each to go, however, on a small amount of bail.

Fashion Hints for Times Readers

FUR CLOTH COATS SMART AND APPROPRIATE FOR YOUNG WOMEN

Though the woman of middle age and presumably established position in life, prefers a genuine fur coat, or none at all, the young girl may, with perfect propriety, wear one of fur cloth, and some of those cloths are so lustrous and luxurious in appearance that they are almost as attractive as the real pelts. Such a garment should be semitrimmed and very simple in line—like the coat in the photograph, which makes no pretense of being a hand-sown garment than it is, but is fitted to smartness by its good cut and the modish and rich fur muffs which accompany it. The coat fastens across at one side, in Russian fashion and the buttons of cut steel add a very effective style touch.

BOARD OF WORKS

German Street Paving and Other Matters Dealt With

At a special meeting of the board of works yesterday afternoon, it was decided to notify the Carrington Estate Manufacturing Company that if they cannot go on with the German street permanent paving work, the contract will be offered to McDonald & McLeod, provided that in the engineer's opinion it is advisable to go on with the work now.

A request from Wm. Thomson & Co. for the use of No. 4 shed for the Allan Line and No. 5 for the Furness Withy Line was referred to a sub-committee to report on at the regular meeting on the 27th inst. Those present, besides the chairman, Ald. McDonald, were: Aldermen Willet, Jones, Elkins, Sprout, Holder, White, Hayes, Baxter, Lively and Scully. In the matter of the German street paving, the Carrington-Esterson Company asked for an extension of time, owing to the lateness of the season, till next year. After some discussion a motion by Ald. White to the effect that the company be advised that unless they were prepared to proceed at once, the contract would be offered to McDonald & McLeod the next lowest tenderers, was passed, and the meeting adjourned.

The Evening Chit-Chat

By RUTH CAMERON

O you—the you today means mothers and fathers—ever romp with your children? I don't mean just play with them in dignified fashion, or walk or talk with them, but really romp—throw aside your dignity and become one of them in a glorious ear-splitting riot of nonsense! If you don't, I think you are missing one of your greatest opportunities to bind your children to you. "I don't think I'll ever forget one Christmas afternoon," I heard a man say the other day, when a group of us were discussing the Christmas of our childhood. "It stands out from all the rest because of a great time we children had with father. Just after breakfast father told us all to be in the living room at three o'clock because there was going to be an entertainment there. He wouldn't tell us any more than that, and you can imagine how excited we got over it. Well, at three o'clock, we were all there, you can just bet, and father came in and started the most glorious romp we ever had. He got right down on his hands and knees and played with us and made faces and said funny things until we laughed so we were almost sick. The father has been dead twenty Christmases now, but never a Christmas passes but I think of that afternoon. Most of us have some such memory, I think. Look back over your childhood and see if the high light doesn't fall on some occasion, some gala day when father or mother, or both, came back down the years to be just children with you. You like to dwell on that day, don't you? Then why not make such memories as numerous as possible for the youngsters about you that are going to reach that point so sadly soon, when they, too, shall begin to look back on their childhood. Orion Swett Marden, the new thought writer, advocates fun as one of the most important elements in child training. "Fun is the cheapest and best medicine in the world for your children as well as for yourself," he says. "Give it to them in good large doses. It will not only save your doctor's bills, but it will also help to make your children happier, and will improve their chance in life. The first duty we owe a child is to teach it to laugh. Let it learn to laugh with the same freedom and abandon as the babbling does when it makes the meadow joyful with its song. There is an irrepressible longing for amusement, for rollicking fun, in young people, and if these longings were more fully met in the home, it would not be so difficult to keep the boy and girl under the parental roof. I always think there is something wrong when the father or the children are so very uneasy to get out of the house at night and to go off 'somewhere' where they will have a good time. A happy, joyous home is a powerful magnet to child and man. Sounds pretty reasonable, doesn't it?"
