TRAVIS GOES TO HIGHER COURT

Testifies in Fire Case—Says He Thought of Jumping Over Wharf.

After a preliminary hearing today John Travis, arrested on suspicion of setting a fire in the home of Mrs. Lillian Vaughan, 124 Mill street, last Friday night was sent up for trial by Police Magistrate Henderson.

D. Mullin, K. C., who appeared on behalf of the prosecution, called Mrs. Lillian Vaughan as the first witness. She told of hearing an alarm for fire about 10:30 o'clock at night, and of going to the street to find out where it was. When she returned to her home she found the kitchen full of smoke and she hurried around to the rear and on entering the back hall saw a man on the stairs. He had in his hand a coat which was afire and he was putting it down between the stairs and a partition. He saw her coming and told her to get out.

She asked him what he was doing and when he did not answer she rushed up the stairs and threw him down. It was so dark, she said, that she could not discern his features, but she saw his hands and a peak cap. The man, she said, was about the same build as the defendant and had about the same appearance. She considered the prisoner corresponding to many ways with the man she threw down the stairs. She said she had smelt liquor on him. In answer to a question by Mr. Mullin she said members of the accused's family had interviewed her after the arrest had been made.

Cross-questioned by the defendant the witness said she did not say he was not the man when brought before her on the night of the fire, but said he resembled the man in answer to another question she said she should have dashed the man's brains out instead of only throwing him down the stairs.

Saw Man Running.

Horace C. Garland was the next witness summoned. He told of being near the Union Station on the night of the fire and on hearing No. 102 ring in. He hurried around to the front of the station and saw a man running away from the box. He was wearing a dark grey suit and was carrying a cap in his hand. He followed the man and saw him disappear in Bond's alley. He continued into the alley, but lost track of him in the dark. He told of running to the Hygienic Bakery building to see if it was afire and of returning and seeing a coat smouldering near one of the buildings. He saw a man leave Bond's alley and turn into Springer's alley. He was running at the time and it appeared as if one of his pockets was afire.

He called out "Hey, your pocket is on fire" but the man continued on and said no attention to him. He crossed Mill street and went in the direction of the C. P. R. freight sheds. The witness did not notice what the man looked like but when he reached the light near Mill street he saw he was wearing light clothes. In answer to a question by the prosecuting attorney he said he had known John Travis for some years. He said the man he saw running from the box resembled another man of the same name. Cross-questioned by the defendant he said the man he saw running away from the box seemed stout.

Fire Marshal Called

Fire Marshal Hugh H. McLellan was then sworn. He told about going to investigate the cause of the fire and of a search for the defendant. He said he visited his home and later located him in a house in Drury Lane. He said when Travis was arrested he acted like a man under the influence of liquor. He had scratches on the back of his left hand and a lump about the quarter the size of an egg on the back of his head. The prisoner had made a remark that he had a taste with a woman, but he refused to tell anything about it when questioned.

In answer to a question put by the defendant the witness acknowledged that he had suspected him of setting a fire in the Ogilvie building. He said he was not hounding him, but that his past record was suspicious of him.

Charles Robinson and Detective Bid-descombe were then sworn and told about circumstances leading up to the arrest.

Travis Testifies

As this ended the case for the prosecution the defendant asked to be sworn. He said he left home on the night in question about 6:30 o'clock and went up to Union street where he met some friends. He said he hung around until about 9:10 o'clock and then went to the Imperial Theatre, left about 10:15 or 10:20 and went to King Square where he sat opposite the Park Hotel. He said he remained there for 15 or 20 minutes and heard No. 102 ring in. He also heard the second alarm. He said he asked a colored girl the time and was informed it was 10:35. He then went to George street and down to Mrs. Bass'. Later he went to Mrs. Boves' home and walked in. He was advised not to go home for they were looking for him on account of the fire. He said he was innocent and said he would go home.

When he arrived he said he told of his movements and later became excited and ran away. He said he went down Gibbon's wharf and intended throwing himself overboard, but he thought of his children. He said he sustained the scratches on his hand from a hammer on the wharf. He said that he had been drinking beer that night but was capable of looking after himself.

Magistrate Henderson said he considered that the evidence was sufficiently strong to send him up for trial.

PRINCE WILLIAM STREET FIRE.

An alarm from box 28, corner of Prince William and Duke streets, drew quite a number to that vicinity about 8:45 this morning. There was a fire in the walls of the former Vendome Hotel building, the upper floors of which are vacant and the lower floor occupied by the plumbing shop of T. P. Kane and a restaurant conducted by Thomas Short.

The fire was believed to have started from an overhauled stove pipe in the restaurant. It was first noticed by Mrs. Campbell, who is employed there. She heard a crackling and, seeing the flames, ran out to the street and asked a man passing to send in an alarm. It was not found necessary to turn on the water but a considerable amount of cutting had to be done; then the chemical was used. The building is owned by Thomas Nagle. The damage was slight.
