RUNNING A HOT AIR FURNACE.

It was not an easy task to convince the investing public that money can honestly earn big dividends, but now that their eyes have been opened, even the bankers are falling into line. On Monday morning, September 17, a syndicate of banks advertised the $100 par stock of a well-known industrial institution at 97-1/2 and guaranteed 7 per cent. In quarterly payments. One of the most sacred obligations existing among men is that of handling one another's money, and he who is most worthy to be trusted is the man who returns the highest interest on the money committed to him for investment. But some modern financiers had reversed this teaching and excited the its stead the fallacy that the terms "safe" and "conservative" are exclu-

IVES BRASS BEDS

Every bed is tested and found perfect before it is allowed to leave the Ives factories. Nothing short of absolute perfection is "good enough."

All the quality that skilled workman and the most modern machinery can put into brass bed making is to be found in Ives Brass Beds.

The two important points in brass bed construction are the joints and the bending. Examine for yourself these two points in the Ives Brass Beds.

month of June last, the exports of this class were only $1,557 to Britain, as compared with $401,609 in June, 1905. Other exports which declined were: Gold quartz, canned meats, lead ore, bacon, sheep, eggs, beans, pork, barley and white pine.

Wheat trade with Britain increased by $20,720,714, or nearly 20 per cent. cheese exports increased $1,128,671, or about 16 per cent; and butter by $1,233,822 or about 20 per cent. Thanks to Canada, we sent $2,451,255 worth of silver ore into the United States more than during the preceding year. The States also took this year about 50 per cent. more copper and 100 per cent. more nickel. Our Newfoundland exports showed several decreases.

SIX ALREADY KILLED
IN THE MAINE WOODS

Three Fatal Shots Fired Last Week—
Accidents Almost Every Day.

BANGOR, Me., Oct. 30.—Six men killed in a record time in the woods last week was the worst of the year, three deaths being reported and several others in the morning. No lamps to tend to do the children's coming to bed, and no other work to do, and meetings to attend, that we had little time to say.

The possibilities of judicious advertising cannot be overestimated—

LIFE AT SHILOH.

farms get a little money and have some extras, but generally all live the same. All except the ministers. They have good things. I have seen Willard Gleason's little children eat at the table and look longingly at the good food of their parents, and even ask for some, but they have had to eat sour mush. Babies have milk, generally enough to nourish them, but not always. But my children have often gone away from even the sour mush, asking pitifully if they could not have some more, if that was all. With only two meals of such food a day, it is no wonder that children pine away. I ought to say that off and on last winter, we had instead of this meal whole corn with the husks on, that had been saved for the horses. It was just boiled with salt and was so hard we could hardly chew it. For a while we had it almost every meal.

"We very seldom had white bread. One time for five or six weeks we did not have it at all. At Thanksgiving or Christmas one time we had white biscuits as a special treat.

"When vegetable time came around last fall, they planted only a few potatoes, but a great many shall beans. But I don't believe they'll have the winter. Some of the neighbors have chubster stewed, with no sugar, with our gruel.

"When the apple time came, the children were allowed to help themselves to the windfalls. Poor little things! They would stand around a while and gaze up for one to fall and when one fell they would cry: 'My apple! my apple!' and scramble for it. But when the neighbors offered to let them have the windfalls or set a basket out for them, they were not allowed to have them for fear there would be some of my breakfast. I have known families to be removed from certain farmhouses because they would eat food from the neighbors. It was 'not loyal.'

"My little baby had milk regularly. That is why he is not like other children. But they were going to cut down on the quantity. Fred Small left a while ago because they would not allow his baby to have such as he thought it needed. And the milk was limited. So, I see the cows are a very bad condition, really starving at times. The Humane Society found it out last spring. And when they found it out, they were so afraid they would arrest him that he stayed at Shiloh only a short time. He came to Eliza, in Boston, and hid. He had his mail sent to Mr. Fenderson, the man in charge of Eliza.

"And the horses too are starving. I almost make me cry to see their poor bones sticking out. More than once I have seen a horse falling down in his tracks at work.

"The children have lunches when there is enough. Sometimes they would get their meals to give the children lunches. Sometimes my little Frank, now five, would say: 'Mamma, can I have some of my breakfast for a lunch? Or five dinner would not be served till 9 or 10 at night and the children would have to sit up for it, or go to bed without it. Women and girls would work on the wash from 3 or 4 in the morning till late at night, with no lunches. The teamsters could have a noon lunch.

"This time again we would go to bed and Frank would turn over and hold his sides and say: 'Oh, mamma, I would almost cry and say: 'Yes, I wish you could.'"

"When asked about the physical condition of the people at Shiloh, Mrs. Callait said:

"They are in a very bad condition physically. Dr. Miller wrote Mr. Sanford that she was shocked and alarmed at the condition of the people's bodies, and she thought she ought to tell him. He wrote back that they must get into the super-natural, where they were, be able to do such things. If they had more of God they would not be like that; their bodies would be all right. I heard both letters read in chapel.

"It is not uncommon for girls to be too weak from hunger to be able to stand their meals. I have heard Miss Rice say, when she had charge of the kitchen, it made her heart sick to see people coming to her for food to carry up to others who were too weak to walk down. This was against the rules.

"Then, too, the babies born there now are not 'good for anything' but that account. There are about 150 children there now, but there have been more than five have been born in one month lately; but most of those born now are sickly and pining, and that is, those whose mothers have been on the regular fare. Mrs. William Miller's baby faints if it falls down. Mr. Sanford has said that God has promised him one thousand babies in the Kingdom, but if he does not feed their mothers better they will not strengthen the kingdom much.

"The health of the girls is specially appalling. I should say 15 out of 20 of the girls are never in a normal physical condition. And this is all apart from whether they were strong when they came or not. Their manner of life does it. Everything is irregular in Shiloh. They are on such a strain all the time that it is specially hard on young women. Then the way they treat themselves; no wonder they break down. There's a rule that all shall take cold baths in the morning. Now some of these girls are so afraid of breaking a rule up that they do this without reference to their condition. And in winter, when they would find their water frozen, they'd bathe with their bodies with lumps of ice. Physicians know what this leads to."

Mrs. Callait says that food is not the only thing scarce at Shiloh, she said: "There are almost no lights at Shiloh. Halla are dark most of the time. The children in the night. No lamps to tend to do the children's coming to bed, and no other work to do, and meetings to attend, that we had little time to say."

"Then the heat: There is little at Shiloh. Most of the time there is no heat, and after meetings are over or the general work is done, but to go to bed to keep warm. And a few know what cold sometimes does. The extension has been steam-heated but very little the last four winters. It is so cold at times that we have to take the children's hands and run with them, and then hurry them to bed in the daytime. Frank's feet froze once when he was a baby, and pieces of them came out. Why, I have known of a girl taking a hot water bag to bed, and finding her feet frozen to it in the morning. It had leaked, and she was so tired she did not wake. I think it was Melicent McKenna, but am not sure.

"And the wood they do use is generally green wet wood, generally just cut down. I heard of water dripping from such a fire and freezing under the stove, it made so little heat. These are some, but not all of the hardships."

NO SIN TO DRINK
SAYS ROCKEFELLER
Leader of Sunday School Class in His Address Also Defends Women Who Sin

NEW YORK, Oct. 29.—"Easily the best address that John D. Rockefeller, Jr., ever delivered," was the unanimous verdict of the members of the Young Men's Bible Class yesterday morning in the Fifth Avenue Baptist Church after their father's exposition of the life of Saul.

"We are influenced too much by what the world says and do as we are told," he said. "Take, for instance, the question of purity. The world, in its careless way, says the man may indulge his appetites and his passions and he is received in society and is regarded as a success. But the woman who does the same is ostracized. That is an example of the judgment of the world. Shall we condemn our standard of life to such a standard as that?"

"Is it ever right to desert principle for expediency? In business, you know, the opportunities which come for making gain by misrepresentation are many, and we say, 'The other nations do it, the other people do it, why not we?' Granted that there comes a temporary gain by that, can you justify it before your God?"

"I do not think it is any greater sin in the eyes of God, to drink beer than to drink water. It is a question of the abuse of the beverage."
