Weak Women

To weak and ailing women, there is at least one way to help. But with that way, two treatments, must be combined. One is local, one is constitutional. Local, is both an important, both essential. Dr. Shoop's Night Cure is the local. The Restorative is the constitutional. It is a powerful, blood purifying, and invigorating, tonic. It is a powerful, blood purifying, and invigorating, tonic. It is a powerful, blood purifying, and invigorating, tonic.

Hints on Etiquette

In society never forget that you are one of many. Never stare about you in a room as if you were taking stock. A letter of introduction should be given to the bearer unsealed. When at a party you may speak to those next to you, even you have not been introduced. Personal pronouns should be used as little as possible when speaking of any one present or absent. Punctuality is an instinct of good breeding; to fail in keeping an appointment at the time arranged is a direct affront to the person awaiting you. Remember age commands respect of youth, and even in the bustle of the twentieth century a lady always makes way for her superior in years. Lovers should not make a practice of absenting themselves, or of being so entirely absorbed with each other as to neglect those whose company they may be in. A woman need not rise when shaking hands with a child or man, unless he be elderly, when it is most gracious to do so, but she should always rise when greeting another woman. At Table. Courtesy excludes the introduction of all subjects calculated to excite heated argument, unpleasant discussion, or anything that may be obnoxious to anyone present. Personal Remarks. Even between personal friends a certain reticence should be observed in this particular. Never be too effusive in manner, but when you can sincerely do so, praise the actions or gifts of friends. This is better than praising their actual possessions. It is well to remain silent if you cannot honestly praise. When in Company. In conversation avoid political, commercial or religious subjects; never interrupt a person when speaking; appear to pay attention or be interested in the conversation. Whispering is bad taste, or conversing in a language that all parties may not be acquainted with. If gifted with wit, do not make a display of it. Look, but avoid staring in the face of the person you are conversing with. Scandal is inexcusable.

Grippe is sweeping the country. Stop it with Preventives, before it gets deeply seated. To check early colds with these little Candy Cold Cure Tablets is surely sensible and safe. Preventives contain no Quinine, no Iodoquin, nothing harsh or sickening. Pneumonia would never appear if early colds were promptly broken. Also good for feverish children. Large box, 48 tablets, 25 cents. Vest pocket boxes 5 cents. Sold by All Dealers.

The Art of Scolding
 There is an art in scolding, but to practice it effectually we must keep our temper well in hand, and wait until our anger has cooled, to administer that word-castigation which often cuts more deeply than the lash of a whip. Scoldings lose their efficiency by being constantly repeated, but a few sharp words in season often act like a tonic and clear the atmosphere of the home. With children, above all, if we wish to be respected, we should never show temper or raise our voice. Our children are often our judges. "I will speak to you in an hour" acts far more powerfully than the most violent display of passion. Good breeding is shown by gentleness and perfect self-control under any stress of circumstances. When the child has been spoken to and knows his punishment, he must be told to leave the room instead of being allowed to treat himself to a feast of tears and a storm of sobs, which pave the way, if the mother is weak, to a reconciliation which plays havoc with her authority more than anything else can possibly do.

I have said, and I maintain, that there should be no such thing as "scolding" between husband and wife. Matters, however serious, can be dismissed dispassionately, always out of the children's hearing, for no woman should allow her children to become aware that there is any friction or disturbance between the parents. Now as to the servants, we have to start from the fact that servants are human beings very much like ourselves. The social gulf is more fictitious in spirit than in fact, and we have to consider how we should like to be in their place, working a round of monotonous duties, like a squirrel in a cage, all day long. We must therefore, endeavor to be just. It would be better to be kind. Never scold or nag at a servant, because it will only make matters worse. Talk in a straight, common-sense way--woman to woman--making it clear that as nothing unreasonable is asked, you mean to be obeyed. Let the "scolding" be methodically gone through, no point being omitted that you want impressed, but be brief, because it is far more telling. State facts clearly and concisely, and tell the maid to go and "think it over." If the servant is worth keeping, she will mend; if not, it is best to let her go. Women would do well to remember that scolding will mark the face with unsightly lines no beauty doctor can eradicate; that to disturb the currents of life and mar its harmony is little short of a crime. Scolding is no good, woman's province; it is an unpleasant medicine that should only be administered in small doses in cases of dire necessity.
