

-- advance notification and consultation on activities and on changes in policy, regulations or practices which may affect the transboundary flow of pollutants;

-- increased co-operation in scientific studies, in air pollution monitoring and in research on pollution control technologies.