

The Six Lines embraced by the CANADIAN NORTHERN RAILWAY SYSTEM traverse widely diversified portions of Canada, thousands of miles from each other, all of them of novel interest to the holidayer and sightseer.

The Canadian Northern (on which line the Superior Express will be resumed on June 14th) is reached from Ontario via Canadian Northern Navigation Co.'s steamers from Sarnia, and by C. P. R. boats from Owen Sound, and traverses largely the historic Dawson Route. From Winnipeg there is a choice of three C. N. R. routes to Prince Albert and two to Edmonton.

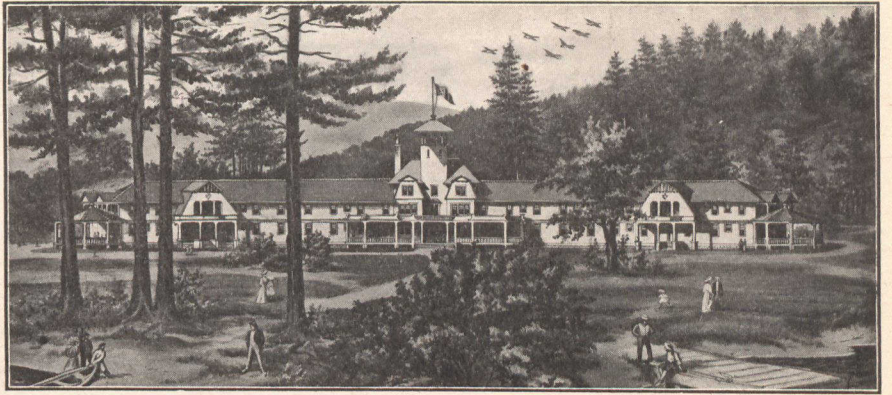

The Canadian Northern Ontario's Lake Shore Express will leave Toronto 10.00 a.m. daily (except Sundays) for the Muskokas on and after June 13th. A Sunday train will bring week-enders back to Toronto at 11.15 p.m. on and after July 5th.

Your plans for the Tercentenary in Quebec in August will include trips through the Laurentians and into the Lake St. John and Saguenay regions over the Canadian Northern Quebec, and the Quebec and Lake St. John Railways.

The Ocean Shore of Nova Scotia (700 miles of which has been opened by the Halifax and South Western Railway from Yarmouth to Halifax) is a delight in sea air, surf bathing and scenery worth contemplating for the summer; and the quiet hospitality of the Cape Breton folk can be enjoyed by a trip to their homes over the Inverness Railway. You want to know more? Write for Booklets, the Information Bureau, CANADIAN NORTHERN RAILWAY SYSTEM, Head Office, Toronto.
