Dear Mr. Meighen,

It was only after a great deal of consideration that I took the liberty of writing you as I have done. I feel you must be in receipt of many such letters and it is because of your innate goodness of heart and broadness of vision that I decided to ask you to help me.

As you know, I was manager of the C. & W. branch office here when it closed and got a junior post as assessor with the Alberta government when the Provincial Income Tax Act came into force a month later.

The provincial government has been so economical for some time now that I cannot see any advancement in it for me and with World events shaping the way they do I feel greater opportunities can be had and an honorable career shaped in the service of our country abroad.

My thoughts often go out to you in sincerest affection and loyalty and my earnest wish is that you will always have the blessings of health and happiness.

Sincerely yours,
W. Brownie.
