

THE ANACREONTEA

211

Havoc make with human hearts.
Death, perdie, he laughs to scorn;
Oft his life doth ebb away
Many times in one brief day,
And as oft he is reborn.