According to Mr. Cooper, one needs on a train journey only about two-thirds of the quantity of food which would be assimilated while engaged in ordinary occupations at home, and ascribes the overeating on trains as due to a desire for a pleasant interlude on the train journey. This new scheme of "Dietetic Blended Menus" is therefore introduced not with the object of the railway being to secure ore money, but to spend less, the bject of the railway being to secure "The four essential elements of food are the proteins or nitragenous foods. the carbohydrates, such as sugar and starch, the fats, such as oil and butter and mineral matters, such as lime, potash and phosphoric acid. "The dietetic blended foods on the Canadian Pacific dining car service menus have been arranged so that the traveller in choosing one of these suggested meals will secure a ration which is dietetic, that is nourishing and wholesome and at the same time properly blended. Thus each of these blended rations will supply all of the nutritional need of the traveller and not burden the digestive apparatus with any excess of the essential elements of food. As a result, the traveller will be better nourished, will suffer less discomfort and be in less danger from injury by overeating than he could possibly be if, without expert knowledge of the nature of foods, he should select a meal for himself."

The Charities Endorsation Bureau will abolish tag days in Winnipeg, regarding them as hold-ups.

Vast Army Will be Sent Against Austria in August.

Rome, June 14.—The plans of the allies, based on the belief that the Dardanelles will be forced within month, provide for a resumption of the Serbian offensive against Austria Good programme of vocal next month. When the strait is forced British and French troops will be re-leased, and it is intended to send them to the Balkans to aid the Serbians. Salonica; on the Aegean, will be the nilitary base for these operations.

The Serbians, who reached the in-terior of Albania and made an agreement with Essad Pasha, the Provisional President and friend of Italy, are marching on Durazzo and Alessio in conjunction with a large force of Montenegrins. An Italian force now occupies Avlona, south of Durazzo, and it is believed that large Italian forces will be sent against Austria through the other port when the Serbian and Montenegrin armies have opened a way. The occupation of Durazzo and Alessio is expected to-morrow, and it is believed that Scutari will be taken

An explanation of the Serbian novement into Albania is given by the Government at Nish in an official statement. It says Albana has been a hotbed of Austro-Turkish intrigue and that Serbia desires to obtain a Plays Great Part and that Serbia desires to strip of territory giving her the "little window on the sea" denied to her the window on the sea which end ed in the first Balkan War.

This makes a total of $1,-

> Mr. White states that the total amount of interest which will have been paid and accrued by July 1st on account of money borowed from the already appropriated by Parl war account is expended before March 31st next, there will be an additional amount of interest payable after July 1st approximating $3,150,-000. There is every indication, says the Minister, that the amount ap-propriated will not be sufficient to provide for the war expenditure up to

March 31. The appropriation of two million for ensions made last session is already being drawn upon, and in the opinion of the Minister will be insufficent to meet the demand.

In Moonlight a Given Contest Was Fought Out Between the Trenches.

By Special Wirs to the Courier. Boulogne, France, June 14.—The story of a duel with bayonets, in which both contestants were killed, is told in a Red Cross report from one of the field hospitals.

"Two miles south of the hospital," says the writer, "a French zouave got separated from his fellows when they retreated after an unsuccessful effort to take a German trench. A German soldier leaped out of the trench and charged the zouave, bayonet, fixed, The zouave met his foe in like manner and an extraordinary duel took place. Neither man dared fire for fear of killing his own men.
"It was about nine at night, and the illuminated the grim contest Round and round the men circled The contest lasted for nearly five minutes, when suddenly both gave desperate lunges which went home. For a second the opponents each stood transfixed by the other's bayonet. Then they fell dead.

Effects of the War

When the history of this war comes to be written in all its phases, not the least absorbing chapter will deal with the influence of medical science on the fields of battle.

It was with this thought that I went the other day to the Pasteur Institute has had a profound effect in the prethe greatest living bacteriologist. I found the old man alone in his laboratory. He raised his hands when I asked him to tell me something about the health of the French army and the methods adopted to keep the troops free of disease. Taxes on railway and telegraph companies will not be ascertainable until later horror; and, as you see, I stay in my laboratory studying my microbes." For a little while the great scientist spoke of the waste of human life, and this setback to civilization. I could and again men kill each other, and all the knowledge of science is directed > to the means by which the slaughter may be made more rapid. "Out of all this misery, however,," said Professor Metchnikoff, \ one thing is good—the health of our armies in the field is remarkable, apart from typhoid, which is diminishing rapidly, owing to the system of inoculation organized by your English doctors. There is nothing in the nature of an epidemic, which might have been expected from a war with so many corpses encumbering the ground. This, indeed, is a victory for science, though put to a sad use." It was not only from M. Metchnik off, but also from Professor Roux, director of the Pasteur Institute, that I ed from all previous wars. "Formerly," said Professor Roux, the number of killed and wounded was comparatively insignificant, compared with the number of those who sease. This was seen, for example in the South African War, when the By-Law No. ... of the Corporation army was swept by enteric fever. But in the present war the very opposite has taken place. The number of kill-ed and wounded is enormorously greater than that of men stricken with disease. This is a great paradox and great irony of modern science. While scientific genius has brought the machinery of death and destruction to astounding perfection, so that men are slain or wounded in prodigious numbers, so has science discovered new means of keeping soldiers free from disease and healing them after their As far as the prevention of disease is concerned, the extraordinary immunity from epidemic of the French and British armies is a victory for the Pasteur Institute and men like Metchnikoff and Roux. The principles of Pasteur and the results of all scien. tific research in this great school of bacteriologyy have been put into practical use in this war with triumphant success.
