THURSDAY, APRIL 5, 1877. CHIGNECTO POST. Is the year 1792 a gentleman named Charlton left a bequest, out of which was to be given a marriage dowry of 6 guineas to the daughters of everyday laborers of the counties of Meath and Longford on their marriage; in presence of Protestant clergeman, to the sones of day labor-rs in taose counties or the counties adjoining. The claims on the fund have been few, and the amoun has increased very largely. The ord the fund to persons of all denomin at stions, and increasing the dowry to £25. The scheme was opposed by the Bishop of Meath and the Bishop of Kelmore, who desired that it should as heretofore be restricted to of Ireland. In opposition to this wiew it was argued that in the year of the testator's neath mixed marri-ages were legalized, if performed in the presence of Protestant clergy-men. NEW GOODS.
