The weather man was right!
Drip, drip, drip, patters the rain on your old coat.
It's a blue day to-day for those who are not

Blizzardeen Protected.

But the man with the BLIZ-ZARDEEN smilingly flaunts the weather. 'Come day, go day, God send Sunday'—it's all the same to him—wet or fine. The oiled silk interlining protects him wherever he goes.

"Water can't get through the dduck's back!" says he.

GIGANTIC POLITICAL PLOT.

LONDON, April 20.
Constantly reiterated reports that a plot having as its purpose simultaneous uprisings in Canada, Egypt, Ireland and India in June, is being commented in New York and have impressed British officials to the extent of setting on foot an investigation.
Officials entered upon their work of investigation to-day, with the idea, it was stated, that if such a plot was on foot, those behind it were irresponsible agitators, who would not be entrusted with funds collected in the United States for the Irish Republic, and who are without organizing ability or other substantial backing.

SUMMARY OF FOREIGN EVENTS.

HORSEA, April 21.

(British Wireless Service).—Official communications issued to-day at San Remo say, "This morning the conference discussed and approved of the financial clauses of the Turkish treaty, and afterwards discussed the Armenian territory question, especially that of the frontier. Following an exchange of views between Lloyd George and Nitti, it has been agreed that the Italian coal situation will be discussed at San Remo, at the end of the week, by representatives of British coal controllers and Italian special delegates, who will probably be ministers of industry. Nitti submitted to Lloyd George a memorandum from Italian manufacturers, pointing out that many industries are on the eve of suspension owing to coal shortage.
The British Government have already decided on a principle to assist Italy with all the powers possible. Sir John Caiman, head of the British Oil Department, has been summoned to San Remo.

Prizes, ranging from 2000 to 20-000 pounds, and amounting in the aggregate to 64,000 pounds, to give to the winners of the 4th Ministry competitions have now been approved.
In addition to giving these prizes the Government will be willing to buy the winning machines at prices ranging from 4000 to 10,000 pounds. The object of the contests, which are open only to British subjects, are to ascertain the best type of aircraft which will be safe, comfortable and economical for air travelling. Competition for large and small aeroplanes will begin on August 3rd next, and for seaplanes on Sept. 1st. Machines must ensure all round excellence for aerial travelling, and economy in flight. It will be impossible for any one machine to win, which excels in only one quality.

The Financial Secretary for War stated in the House of Commons that the British Military Mission in South

Russia had been withdrawn, and now there was in the Crimea only a small mission. The British Foreign Office had sent a communication to the Bolsheviki Government in order to secure, if possible, the lives of a large number of Russian soldiers, officers, women, children and refugees, who were now gathered in hundreds in the Crimea.

Ford Truck Damaged.

The Ford Truck used by Mr.
Churchill, of Portugal Cove, was badly damaged on Monday, when it ran into a ditch just outside the Cove. Mr.
Churchill turned the car in on the side of the road, which was narrow at that point, to allow another car to pass him. The car went into a ditch and almost overturned. Several passengers were severely shaken up, while one, in particular, was bruised.
The truck was badly damaged.

Concert on Bell Island.

The Bell Island Choral Society held the first of a series of concerts last evening in the C.L.B. Armoury there.
The affair was well gotten up and attracted a large and appreciative audience. A duet by the Misses LeDrew was very beautifully rendered and evoked considerable applause. "Drink to me only with Thine Eyes," by the full chorus, was also very effective.
Several other items of the programme were encored. Miss English was the pianist.

Laid to Rest.

The funeral of the late John Cunningham, who for many years carried on a shoemaking business in Brien Street, took place yesterday afternoon, from the residence of his son-in-law, Mr. W. P. Ryan, assistant City Engineer, Newtown Road, and was largely attended by his many friends in the city. During the last forty years he has been a resident of St. John's West where he was well and favourably known. He was a man of high intellectual qualities and being well read, could converse on many subjects of local interest, particularly the historic events and happenings of long ago at the old Capital, "Placentia," of which district he was a native. Mr.
Cunningham leaves to mourn him one brother, at Placentia and one son, John, of Boston, (who for many years served with distinction in the United States Navy and when war was declared between the United States and Germany, he again volunteered accepting a commission on the engineering staff of a large transport) and one daughter, Mrs. W. P. Ryan, with whom he died. He was in his seventy fourth year. To his many friends and relatives the writer extends sympathy. "May his soul rest in peace."

A Modern Casabianca.

How lightly naval men regard death is emphasised by a story told by Capt. Evans in his newly-published "Keeping the Seas."

During one of the coastal bombardments by our destroyers (writes Captain Evans) a signalman had been stationed at the end of Newport Pier for the purpose of passing signals from the Army to the Admiral, and vice versa. Presently the pierhead came within the zone of the enemy's shell fire, and the signalman was ordered off.

The man, however, stuck to his post on the pier-head, flashing to seaward, semaphoring to shoreward, oblivious of danger, but jumping round like a monkey in a red-hot cage.

Whole sections of the pier were shot away. So one of the destroyers was run close in to the shore, and a command was shouted out through a megaphone to the officer in command of the nearest unit:

"Tell that blooming Casabianca to get to blazes off his burning deck—now!"

Catalina—Calm; bay blocked with ice.
Greenspond—Wind east, with thick fog; coast blocked with ice.
Wesleyville—Wind N.E., with thick fog; ice conditions same as yesterday.

OH, HOW SICK!

Be careful your suit doesn't get the "flu". The best cure for a sick suit is to give it to the Clothes Hospital and let the Doc-
