POLLING DAY.

THE END OF THE CONTEST.

This is the day that brings to an end the great and momentous political contest that has been in progress the past ten weeks-a contest in which the weal or woe of the Colony was at stake. As we go to press the free and independent electors are going to the boothrooms in thousands and marking their ballots for the good, clean, honest and progressive party under the leadership of Mr. J. R. Bennett. We have every confidence in a complete bungle of the voters lists. the result. We have not one minute's uneasiness. We have only Men who have registered their names to wait for the ballots to be counted to proclaim a great and glorious victory for the Liberal-Labor Progressive Party.

A DUTY AND A PLEASURE.

This contest has been to us both a duty and a pleasure. A DUTY in that we believe an independent newspaper should at all times defend the people's rights against all dangers that may threaten, whether those dangers are the result of wilful ignorance and base intrigue, on the one hand, or the enemies of our for the past fifty years and has not Rev. J. Brinton. The delay caused by ting the various sections up for their and uphold the truth as against falsehood and wrong, when the this bungling is annoying to say the The various notes there are latter seemed almost as if it would triumph.

CONGRATULATIONS.

We extend to all our friends, in the city and the outports, our congratulations and thanks for their very valuable contributions during the campaign. The fight is now over and the people will be able to apply themselves to their usual avocations with absolute freedom and hope, knowing that the Bennett Government will enter upon its important duties with a vigor inspired by Miss C. Jeeves, Miss E. V. Jeeves, the confidence and unwavering support of the electorate. We Mrs. E. H. N. Kennedy and son, Miss able followers a great future is in store for Newfoundland—a Donald, M. M. Basedon, J. H. Ainsfuture bright with hope and encouragement—a future in which combe, A. Robertson and Miss E. all the expectations of the people will be realized.

PROGRESS.

We do not wish to appear too optimistic, but, having faith in the resources of our island home, we believe that all that is necessary to bring us greater prosperity than we have as yet realized, is a good government for the proper administration of note, which was delivered at the our public affairs. This government we will have when the Benin the German language, are regardnett Party takes office.

WISDOM AND ABILITY.

IN THE BALANCE.

The culminating point of the 1923 election campaign will be reached and passed to-day, for on this fateful day of May 3rd, will be recorded the decision of Newfoundlanders as to whether they are to be governed by repesentatives of the people, or whether they will be ruled by a party representative of but one section of our population. Ere this appears in print, the majority will have cast their vote one way or the other, and the count alone will reveal how that vote has gone. Truly we might say the welfare of Newfoundland is in the hands of the people to-day and whatever happens during the next four years, is traceable more or less to the contents of the ballot box.

Only a few hours remain for St. John's voters to do their duty, and as the time draws near we tell you in all sincerity to vote for John R. Bennett and his party.

The Telegram has stood on the bridge—and hurled back in the teeth of the enemies of our country the battle cry, which is & Co., have provided us with some mourn a wife and child, a mother, heard from Cape Race to Cape Ray, thence to Cape Onion, and round to the East Coast to St. John's and down through Ferryland to Cape Race,- it is for the people to do the rest. We are ready to stand by all we have said—and we here repeat it—"If the Coaker-Squires have stood the most rigid tests in our soil and climate, such as Succession.

But the Telegram is sure that the Coaker-Squires Government will not succeed in again bluffing its way into power, an the Battle of the Ballots to-day will seal the doom of Coakerism n Newfoundland. Then for your country's and your children's sake—for the sake of your homes and friends—for the sake of poor old Newfoundland, our beloved country, let our Battle Cry MINARD'S LINIMENT FOR FALLING offers its condolence in this, their out "Ilp Guards and at them?" Our duty is done.

Polling Day.

This is Polling Day ,and the booths tricts the hours will be from 8 a.m., to 4 p.m. The special booths at the Seamen's Institute for outport voters will remain open till 8 p.m.

Following the custom of previous ections, a special train will leave it probable that only one district will Grave. The count will probably begin there about midnight.
