Brigham, as he is Popularly styled, is one of the easiest Battled men of any repute in the league.

He frequently gets two strikes called off the batter, and then almost invariably throws six balls away off from the plate. The Londons know this and after two strikes are called down goes the club, for they know that Brigham can't throw the third and they generally wait for the umpire to call six balls. If Brigham could keep up courage he would make an excellent pitcher but in his present state he is a positive failure. Two new players made their debut with the Prims to-day, McAuliffe and Garston. The latter attired in a suit that had seen much service, looked as he went to the field as though he would make a good ball player, but during the first four innings his exhibition was so utterly bad that the captain removed him to right field, where he would have but little work to do, Barnfather taking his place at second. sattled men of any repute in the league. field, where he would have but little work to do, Barnfather taking his place at second. Taken as a whole the Primrose team to-day was the weakest that they have played in Dundurn this season. Bierbauer behaved very well behind the bat, checking the course of many a wild throw from Young, thus saving that individual from doubling his already large number of errors. The interest in the game was very slight, the spectators being very sparing in their applause. All through the game the Forest city boys had things pretty much their
