"Graveyard Advertising." The young Grandler, whom T. Eaton & Co. pretend to be wall, was on his return from the Northwest not treated in a very handsome manner by the firm. He had been in oharge of the boot and shoe department, while bargains are plentiful and the rush that conservative mollusk, the clam, should, while bargains are plentiful and the rush first still on, call upon and purchase off is still on, call upon and purchase off is still on, call upon and purchase off is still on a clam, "though some everocat and whatever else in his line they require. "Dont be a clam," though some what a trite injunction, is nevertheless a timely phrase, and one well calculated to arrest the attention of those who other wise might walk blindly past and pay at another store 39.50 for exactly the same overcoat Jamieson is selling as a special line for $4.75. Conspionous among a host of fame imported of clam bait are 88 dozen of fine imported of clam bait are 88 dozen of fine imported for the first cost in bond. These are facts. Carpets and House Furnishings.
Yesterday a World reporter paid a visit to and was shown through the commodious warerooms of Messrs. Beatty & Son, 3 King warerooms of Messrs, Beatty & Son, 3 King street east, carpet importers and salesmen and inspected their large and varied stock. The building in its entirety is occupied wholly by this firm, and has five spacious floors, all of which are kept at a proper temperature and filled with regular and special lines of goods peculiar to their trade. In the basement is stored a huge quantity of linoleums and oll cloths. On the ground floor are displayed to view an elegant assortment of wool and union carpets, curtain materials, window blinds, cornice poles, rugs, mats, etc., of all patterns, qualities and descriptions. On the next two floors are the remaining portions of their immense stock of Wiltons, Brussels, Axminsters and Tapestry carpets, including special lines and bargains, cocoanut matting, drugget squares, of a variety too vast to enumerate. On the top floor are some of the work rooms, where is made up the greater part of their stock in trade. Messrs. Beatty & Son undoubtedly have one of the largest stocks to choose from of any local tradesmen, and intending patrons may be assured of a courteous reception and civil attention at the hands of their salesmen.

The Hardman Piane.

As Christmas and the New Year are rapidly approaching, when music is so essentially a prominent feature in the seasonable parties and e-tertainments everywhere prevalent, it may be to the interest of our patrons if we draw attention to the celebrated "Hardman piano. This is a high class American instrument, superior in construction, finish and tone to the majority of pianos to be purchased at a price approximating in cheapness to that of the "Hardman." Its merit has built for it a reputation on which it rests, secure and ever tuppermost in public favor. It cannot be excelled. A n imber of them may be seen at the store of Mr. C. H. Bigger, Yonge street arcade. We recommend those in want of a good piano to give him a call.
