

NOTICES OF NEW BOOKS.

THE FARMER AND THE LORD. By George H. Hopworth. Cloth, 7s. E. P. Dutton & Co., New York.

THIS is an extremely entertaining and wholesome book. It presents a typical picture of farm life, and the religious and moral problems which arise out of a country existence. This is the serious side to it. The story is pretty and well-told and Lije's journey toward a belief in religion is the reflex of many similar cases scattered over the farming districts of this continent.

LOVE AND DEATH. By Lyman Abbott, D.D. Paper. 10s. E. P. Dutton & Co., New York.

A short paper on a great subject by one of the foremost of American divines. The style is terse and original. As to appearance, the little booklet is printed and bound in perfect taste.

DIARY OF A JAPANESE CONVERT. By Kanzo Uchiyama. Cloth, 5s. Fleming H. Revell Co., Toronto.

The writer is a native Japanese who has himself done it into English. His Christian experiences are full of interest. The book is unique, and presents an inner picture of a converted heathen's mind which all who inquire into the success of foreign missions will like to read. The author is evidently a man of much ability.

THE DEEPER CHRISTIAN LIFE. By Rev. Andrew Murray. Cloth, 6s. Fleming H. Revell Co., Toronto.

This is a little book of instruction for the attainment of the deeper Christian life. It is simply and practically written. The size enables it to be carried in the pocket.

A MOST PROVOKING GIRL. By Margaret Moyes Black. Crown 16s. cloth extra, 6s. 6d. Oliphant, Anderson & Ferner.

One of the healthiest and most amusing stories we have read for some time. Nannie is a mischievous little character who grows into a fine young woman, who wins the love of two young men, as well as the admiration of the reader. Nannie supplies sufficient incident, and the story, which is bright and and natural, will be highly popular. Its religious purpose is uppermost, but not obtrusive. It is finely bound and printed, as are all the books from this firm of Scotch publishers.

ADLEINE COUNTESS SCHIMMELMANN. Edited by W. South Eggar. Pictures and illustrations by Hester A. Strong. Toronto: Fleming H. Revell Co., Toronto.

The Countess Schimmelmann in these pages gives an account of her life, which has been devoted in great part to Christian work among sailors, workmen and prisoners. Her personal reminiscences of the Danish and German Courts are very readable, and the career of a lady of rank who abjures home and friends for the sake of her religion, whose experiences lead her into association with socialists and anarchists, and who was finally imprisoned in a retreat for
