It is proposed to cross the Mersey by means of an iron tunnel, to be sunk at the bottom of the river, in a line between Liverpool and Seacombe. The scheme embraces the excavation of a trench in the bed of the river to contain the iron tube which will lie at a depth of about 2 feet below the bed. This excavation is proposed to be effected by means of large air chambers on the principle of the diving bell. A certain amount of flexibility will be given to the tube by the use of Mr. William William's patent joints, which will enable it to be lowered down in sections when the trench is completed. The cost is stated at $2,500,000.
