

PREAMBLE

The Parties to the North Atlantic Treaty signed at Washington on 4th April 1949, and the Parties to the North Atlantic Treaty signed at London on 24th April 1954, hereinafter referred to as the Parties, Recognizing that their mutual security and defence requires that they be prepared to meet the contingencies of atomic warfare and that a high level of atomic energy is essential to the development of atomic energy and that the common interests of the Parties will be advanced by making available to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization information pertinent to the development of atomic energy and the control of atomic energy and that the Parties are determined to cooperate in the field of atomic energy and to take into consideration the United States Atomic Energy Act of 1954 which was prepared with this purpose in mind.

TABLE DES MATIÈRES

	PAGE
Préambule .....	5
Sections de la loi américaine de 1954 sur l'énergie ato- mique dont il est fait mention dans l'Accord .....	11

1. The Parties to the North Atlantic Treaty signed at Washington on 4th April 1949, and the Parties to the North Atlantic Treaty signed at London on 24th April 1954, hereinafter referred to as the Parties, Recognizing that their mutual security and defence requires that they be prepared to meet the contingencies of atomic warfare and that a high level of atomic energy is essential to the development of atomic energy and that the common interests of the Parties will be advanced by making available to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization information pertinent
to the development of atomic energy and the control of atomic energy
and that the Parties are determined to cooperate in the field of atomic energy and to take into consideration the United States Atomic Energy Act of 1954
which was prepared with this purpose in mind.

2. The Parties to the North Atlantic Treaty signed at Washington on 4th April 1949, and the Parties to the North Atlantic Treaty signed at London on 24th April 1954, hereinafter referred to as the Parties, Recognizing that their mutual security and defence requires that they be prepared to meet the contingencies of atomic warfare and that a high level of atomic energy is essential to the development of atomic energy and that the common interests of the Parties will be advanced by making available to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization information pertinent
to the development of atomic energy and the control of atomic energy
and that the Parties are determined to cooperate in the field of atomic energy and to take into consideration the United States Atomic Energy Act of 1954
which was prepared with this purpose in mind.

3. All transfers by the Government of the United States of America of atomic energy or special nuclear material, as those terms are defined in Section 114 and Section 117 of the United States Atomic Energy Act of 1954, or the Sections of the United States Atomic Energy Act of 1954 relating to the development of atomic energy and the control of atomic energy and the control of atomic energy, shall be subject to the provisions of the United States Atomic Energy Act of 1954 and subsequent applicable United States legislation, unless the Parties to the North Atlantic Treaty signed at London on 24th April 1954, hereinafter referred to as the Parties, shall otherwise agree in writing.

4. The Parties to the North Atlantic Treaty signed at Washington on 4th April 1949, and the Parties to the North Atlantic Treaty signed at London on 24th April 1954, hereinafter referred to as the Parties, Recognizing that their mutual security and defence requires that they be prepared to meet the contingencies of atomic warfare and that a high level of atomic energy is essential to the development of atomic energy and that the common interests of the Parties will be advanced by making available to the North Atlantic Treaty Organization information pertinent
to the development of atomic energy and the control of atomic energy
and that the Parties are determined to cooperate in the field of atomic energy and to take into consideration the United States Atomic Energy Act of 1954
which was prepared with this purpose in mind.