

- In 1990 the government of Finland proposed the imposition of a CO₂ tax which is estimated to raise the price of gasoline by 6 per cent, the price of gas by 2 per cent and the price of coal by 8 per cent. In the budget for 1991 this tax is estimated to add (over 1990 levels) about 7 per cent to the price of gasoline and about 5 per cent to the price of other fossil fuels.

