Walter Johnson Called to Beat Nineteen Straight

If anything should happen to Walter Johnson, where would the Washingtons finish in the American League race? Already baseball sharps, assuming that Johnson will be as much of a puzzle this year as last, are predicting that the Senators will win thirty-five games in which he occupies the box. The records show that since 1907, when he made his bow, Johnson has pitched in 128 games, receiving credit for 108 victories and 84 defeats, a winning percentage of .563. Opponents in the same period have made 127 base hits and 477 runs. Johnson has given 360 bases on balls and has fanned 112 batters.

Last year the big fellow took part in forty games, winning thirty and losing ten, a percentage of .750, the best of his career. He won twenty-three and lost fifteen in 1911, while, in 1910, he scored twenty-four victories with sixteen defeats. He pitched in forty-one games in 1909, and struck out 368 men, his greatest performance in this respect. In 1909 Johnson won twelve games and lost twenty-four, but the previous year he won fourteen and lost eleven.

During his first season with the Senators Johnson participated in eighteen games, winning five and losing eight. Johnson is in prime condition at Charlestown, and Griffith believes that he will break all pitching records during the coming season, even exceeding the record of nineteen straight, held jointly by Rube Marquard and Tim Lincecum.

Central Rugby Lost To Hamilton Idlers

Visitors Displayed Some Pretty Combination and Secured a Sufficient Score to Win Out.

On Central court last night the Idler basketball five of Hamilton defeated the Central Rugby Club by a score of 46 to 45. The visitors on some pretty combination play secured an early lead, showing in front at the half-way mark 28 to 14. During this half Johnson for the Idlers showed some phenomenal shooting, while White was the only local with any ability to locate the basket. On resuming play was very fast, the Rugby Club doing the bulk of the scoring, but were unable to pull down the only lead of the visitors, falling short by three points. Reforming Cricket In San Francisco

In San Francisco they have decided that cricket is too slow. A great many good Canadians have decided the same thing, but they did nothing about it. However, the San Francisco people promptly attempted the work of living up to the staid old English game. In future they will play with one cricket, the other batsman being used merely for running purposes. This will not necessitate the field being moved. The bowlers will be changed at overs, as before. To further make things go on at a lively rate, an incoming batsman will have one minute to get out of the field, and the batsman who is not declared out will be out. A batsman playing a long time will be out. He must hit the ball at San Francisco.

MAY DAY CELEBRATION.

It is customary in European cities for Socialists to hold parades and demonstrations on May Day, and Toronto Socialists are planning a monster celebration for this day.

BUSILY PLANNING GREATER BERLIN

Civic Association Doing Good Work in Preparing for Expansion.

BERLIN, Ont., March 28.—(Special.)—The Berlin Civic Association, which has the work of town planning in mind, is making good progress toward its desired goal, a "greater Berlin." The executive committee of the association, which is divided into sub-committees and every phase of city planning is being carefully attended to. Not the least of these is the planning, park and playgrounds, housing committees, while legislation and transportation problems are being looked after by the planning committee. There will be no room for slums. A change of city hall site appears to be a necessity, while more parks and playgrounds are to be made. The executive committee are working hard to carry the project thru.

WEDLOCK ENRICHES WINDSOR PASTORS

Salaries Small in Consideration of Big Marriage Fees, 'Tis Asserted.

LONDON, Ont., March 28.—(Can. Press.)—"The legislation proposed by the provincial government which would eliminate the Gretna Green marriages at the border cities has my heartiest approval," said Rev. Richard Whitting today. "The number of marriages performed at Windsor is used as a bait for the securing of clerical men to accept pulpits in that city. This is a fact. When a preacher is written to the statement is made that while the salary is not as large as in some places, there is a great influx of people who desire to be married. The Methodist clergymen perform between 500 and 600 marriages at Windsor alone, and my contention is that they cannot attend to the duties of the church in a proper manner and perform two or three marriages a day. Under the present circumstances all Windsor clergymen are looking for weddings. To require three weeks' interval before marriage licenses is issued to non-residents would stop the number of marriages at the border cities and I work for good."

of the city. When it is possible to clear away the debris there and make a thorough search of the houses, many of which were overturned and wrecked by the flood, additional dead may be taken out, but according to the most reliable information obtainable from dozens of men actively engaged in rescue work and from the headquarters of the section now established at Vancleave school on Forest avenue and Helena street, there are only about 20 persons still missing and it is believed many of these escaped to homes in North Dayton View, which was not affected by the flood.

In that section on the east side of the Miami River and north of the Mad River, rescue work went forward today with hundreds of people living in upper stories and practically without food or water since Tuesday morning, refused to leave their homes, believing they would have a better chance for safety there than elsewhere. Water and food were supplied them. Hundreds of others had taken refuge in North Dayton View, which was not affected by the flood.

A central morgue has been established at the court building on Main street, and as fast as possible identifications will be made. Many of the bodies have been recovered, however, and the difficulties in the way of identification. One woman, for instance, was found lying across a picket fence with her face so badly lacerated that it was expected her identification would be made. She wore only night clothing and apparently was not yet out of bed when the levee broke.

No Real Epidemic. A report was circulated today to the effect that an epidemic of typhoid fever and pneumonia had developed in Riverdale and West Dayton. It was ascertained, however, that not a single well-developed case of either disease was known in the sections mentioned, although there was considerable sickness among the refugees, particularly among the women and children, due to privation. Three deaths from diphtheria in other sections were reported by the secretary of the board of health.

Representatives of the Associated Press made their way in rowboats and canoes thru nearly all of Riverdale, North Dayton and West Dayton. This was the first time that it was possible to penetrate these districts. While conditions there were not actually suffering to any considerable degree, and no dead bodies were to be seen anywhere, for taken out by rescuers.

In a number of places thruout the city camp have been established and families have set up housekeeping in tents, cooking in the open over campfires.

Perilous trips around the tops of burning buildings, with the yawning walls of the floor below them, marked the escape of 34 men, women and children from the north side of Third street from Jefferson to St. Clair Tuesday night.

Down to seek aid in the streets below. None was available, and, driven by the flames, the refugees retreated from the east and west sides of the square, forcing their way thru attic hatchways and in this manner the Cooper building became the common places of refuge. Hemmed in on both sides, a way out was now sought across Third street. Harry Kirk, a well-known local man, under his direction one of the party was let down the opposite side, fastened a rope to the building and then signalling his comrades behind.
