Cramps Fatal to Charles Grinham, Toronto, While W. Allan, Nelson, B. C., Succumbed to Weak Heart While Swimming to Rescue Canoeists---Two Deaths Within an Hour.

Two young men tost their lives in the lake of the town park here this afternoon, the two fatalities occurring within the space of one hour. Charles Grinham, aged 31, with his wife, went to the beach for a bathe By a Staff Reporter. about noon, and while swimming in 15 feet of water was seized with a cramp and went down in full view of his wife. He had been married a year. About an hour later W. Allan, a third-year student of the Toronto School of Practical Science, whose wife and two children live in Nelson, B.C., lost his life in attempting to save the lives of W. E. Armour and his two children, whose canoe had capsized 100 yards out in the lake. Grinham never rose after the cramp seized him. His wife, on the beach, heard one cry for help and saw him disappear. A rowboat was immediately launched and a young man recovered the body, and the Oakville doctors worked on him for over an hour he could not be resuscitated.

With the men still working over Grinham's body on the dock, the canoe containing Armour and his two children, aged 6 and 11 years, capsized while they were attempting to raise a small sail. Allan at the time was standing on the top of a 50-foot bank overlooking the lake, and when Armour appeared to have difficulty in getting his children to cling to the canoe, impatiently exclaimed, "Can nothing be done to help them?" A moment later, only waiting to discard his coat, he scrambled down the steep bank and struck out to aid them. In spite of the weight of his clothing and boots, he succeeded in covering over half the distance when, without a cry, he suddenly sank from view and never rose again.

An Oakville man went out in a rowboat and got the body on his first Two hours' work failed to bring Allan back to consciousness. Both bodies were removed to Tuck's undertaking establishment.
