

Individuals Do Not Make Ideal Executors

The average person has not the desire to act as executor for even his best friend. Why? Because the distribution of an estate is a complicated matter to a person without legal training and experience.

Would you care to be burdened with the duty of administering the estate of your best friend? Answer this question honestly and you will know the reason why individuals do not make ideal executors.

The ideal executor should be in a position to carry out a person's wishes to the letter; to administer the estate at minimum cost in the shortest time possible; to produce evidence periodically to the court that its duties are being faithfully performed.

The Canada Trust Company will make for you as it has made for hundreds of others—an ideal executor.

The allowances to this company for its work are not higher than those made by the courts to an individual executor and trustee.

In many cases they are less than the amount that would have been allotted to individuals acting in the same capacity.

The officers of the estates department are glad to consult with those desiring information as to naming of this company as their executor.

There is no charge for such consultation and no obligation will be incurred.

ANGLICAN WOMEN WILL VOPE FOR THE FIRST TIME IN VESTRIES

Extension of Church Franchise To Be Exercised in Easter Meetings Held in the City This Evening.

The Easter vestry meetings to be held this evening in the Anglican churches of the city are being anticipated with unusual interest and in some cases quite a degree of apprehension. For the first time, following the decision reached at the diocesan synod of last June, women will exercise the prerogative of voting in some cases. It will also mean exercising the privilege of attending the Easter Monday vestry meeting for the first time, owing to the fact that this important event has been confined exclusively to church officials in the past. Now, it is to be a congregational affair, as it has been in a number of the Anglican churches in the past. The only difference in the latter case is that women will be removed from the prohibition concerning voting for women.

So far as apprehension is concerned, a number of good Anglicans evidently anticipate trouble from allowing such attitude for exercise of authority in church matters to women. One prominent church member expressed anxiety to the advertiser today, stating that he wondered if the women would make much trouble, and hold up business proceedings by talking too much.

St. M. McElhannan, who valiantly opposed the cause of "votes for women" only last year at the synod meeting when it carried, but on previous occasions when the the vestry was not interested any longer, according to his own statement made today.

"Women are going to vote in vestries tonight, are they not?" he was asked, to which he replied: "I don't know I'm sure. I suppose they will if they qualify."

"What do you mean by 'qualify'?" "They must be contributors to the church to the extent of $5 a year," he explained.

"Don't the majority of women give that much?" And is that all the qualification required?" was next asked.

"That," Mr. McElhannan replied, "and registering six months in advance if they want to vote."

"Supposing they pay the $5 a year and have failed to register, will any question be raised about their voting?" "I don't know I'm sure. I'm not interested," was Mr. McElhannan's last word on the question.

PLUMBER GASSED

Casualty Resulted From Trench Work in City Limits.

Gassed while repairing a broken connection on St. Paul's Street, a plumber for the City Gas Company, had to be assisted from the trench in which he was working. Workmen were filling in the sewer trench on Florence Street, and in some way a gas pipe was broken off. The man was sent out to make repairs. He jumped into the trench thinking that as the pipe had been temporarily capped there would be no danger. The fumes quickly overcame him, however, and he was assisted out. Medical aid was summoned immediately. He recovered sufficiently to walk with assistance to the automobile in which he was taken to his home.

$840 IN FINES LEVIED TODAY BY MAGISTRATE

Breaches of Ontario Temperance Act Swells Police Court Coffers.

BEER BARREL AS EXHIBIT

Three Bottles of Alcohol Another Police Evidence to Get Conviction.

Fines totalling $840, all imposed under the Ontario temperance act, were levied by Magistrate A. H. M. Graydon in police court today. Of this amount $440 was collected in court.

The collection of liquor presented as exhibits was at the same time different from the ordinary layout usually gathered in at police court. A barrel of beer and four quart bottles of alcohol were noted as exhibits in the various charges.

John Wanzankiewicz, 514 Hamilton road, was the first to be called. Magistrate Graydon looked at the name, pronounced the first syllable and quit.

"Stand up, John," said the court, and John stood up. He pleaded not guilty and claimed he knew nothing whatever of the presence of the liquor at his house.

Later, under cross-examination, he said he was aware that there was a barrel of beer in the house. The fine of $200 and costs or three months in jail followed. The fine was paid.

Mike Kysh, a boarder at Wanzankiewicz's house, admitted that he owned the three quart bottles of alcohol found in a suitcase in his room by Sergeant Lucas.

When searched at the police station Kysh had $900 saved in the lining of his coat. His wallet was reduced to the extent of $250 and costs to settle the fine imposed.

Sebastian George, 187 Mill Street, was found on the street with a bottle of whiskey in his pocket. He offered no excuses, and contributed another $200 and costs.

John Hooper, 78 Wellington Street, the fourth man charged under Section 41, pleaded guilty and drew a similar penalty, $200 and costs.

Four drunks pleaded guilty and each paid $10 and costs.

BLAME ATMOSPHERE, NOT ANY FOOD, FOR INTESTINAL GRIPPE

Local Doctors Differ From Michigan Physicians.

CORN BLAMED OVER THERE

'Wet' Variety of Meal Said To Have Caused Trouble in Detroit.

A report from Detroit states that warnings are being sounded in that city by several physicians against the use of cornmeal made from frosted or 'wet' corn, owing to the fact that it contains a form of intestinal trouble to its consumption. 'Wet' corn is that which did not dry naturally in the husk, but was forced to mature by artificial means due to last fall's delayed harvest and prevalent wet weather, and it constitutes a great portion of the crop in Michigan. Frosted corn in many cases is 'wet' as it is not properly matured. The wet corn is ground into meal without proper drying, with the result that it is a sort of ferment, moisture permitting it to ferment.

Intestinal troubles, it is stated, have in a number of cases been traced to this so-called cornmeal, the shortage of wheat having given it impetus to the sale of cornmeal as a wheat substitute. One physician is quoted as saying that he considers a slight increase in digestive troubles among patients is due to a change in diet due to wheat shortage in Michigan, and also to the fact that many people are baking their own bread for the first time and are using inferior flour in the process.

Local physicians interviewed today state that there has been a considerable amount of intestinal trouble in London this spring, although none of the doctors connected with it with any special food.

Dr. E. L. Williams said in response to inquiry: "I had a couple of cases of slight intestinal trouble this forenoon, but not unusual occurrences. I do not attribute them to the water or food, but to an infection carried in the air."

Dr. J. J. Ferguson, who has had several cases of intestinal trouble last week, which he diagnosed as intestinal grippe. The symptoms in these cases, as in others which have been coming out the notice of other doctors, are some fever, more or less cold, nausea and intestinal pains.

Dr. J. J. Ferguson's experience has been that there are much fewer cases of intestinal trouble than some weeks ago, when he believed the epidemic was traceable to the condition of the city water.

"How do you account for the number of cases at present?" he was asked.

"The atmospheric changes which upset some people and also affect the water, not in an infectious way, but to an extent which causes a certain amount of trouble," he replied.

STILL WRESTLING WITH ESTIMATES TO STRIKE RATE

Council Will Hold a Special Meeting on Wednesday.

The city council will meet tonight. It is expected that the meeting will be called for Wednesday night to deal with the estimates. It is planned to strike the tax rate this week. The outlook is that there will be some hard bargaining to do to get the rate down to that of last year, 33 mills. It takes about $10,000 to take off a mill, and the rate now stands a little above 34 mills.
