that the senate will not refuse its race floation.

An intimation was obtained today that Mr. Wilson deems unessential the incorporation of provisions for the league in the same treaty that contains the peace terms. This indicates that he intends to observe, in this respect, the resolution placed before the senate by Mr. Knox.

In view of the fact that a peace treaty more in keeping with Mr. Wilson's principles can be obtained after the protection of Britain and America has been pledged to France and Italy against a possible revival of German military power, deduction can safely be made of the nature of the peace treaty. It will be drastic or lenient with Germany, according to Year.

I know that in many of your homes there will be sadness and mourning for kith and kin who in the great world war, now so happily ended, have suffered and perhaps made the supreme sacrifice; but, mingled with that sorrow, will, I am sure, be a feeling of pride in the part so successfully played by the men and lads of Canada in the cause of liberty.

Of the Canadian forces, employees of the Grand Trunk played no mean part; nearly five thousand of them placed their services at the disposal of their country in either the army or the navy, and many of them have won distinction by their bravery and feats of valor.

To those Grand Trunk employees not privileged to take up arms in the defence of country and liberty fell the task of taking care of the largest volume of traffic ever carried in a similar period in the history of the company, and I wish to congratulate you all upon the very successful manner in which this arduous task has been accomplished congratulate you in about this arduous task has been accomplished and to express also the pleasure I feel in the knowledge that the efforts of our employees have been recognized by substantial increases in their wages, which undoubtedly have added greatly to their comfort and harpiness. in their wages, which undoubted, have added greatly to their comfort and happiness.

I thank you for the loyal co-operation and support given the company during the stress and strain of the past four years, and am sure that I may look for a continuance of that co-operation and support during the coming year, and that when ended we all may be able to look back upon a period of achievement

Again wishing you and your lamilies the season's greetings,
W. D. ROBB, Vice-President.
