Don't buy Silver Queen now. It is too cheap. Wait till it goes higher. The same can be said of Foster and Trethewey. Don't touch them, they are too cheap. Wait till they go higher. People want to pay a high price for good things, then they realize they have got something. New Temiskaming, too; watch it. It is a cheap stock with a wenderful mine at the back of it. Den't buy it while it is cheap; wait till it goes higher. Record of production last year at Cobalt was 14,000 tons—$9,000,000. Hard to beat, isn't it? Heron & Co. in their weekly letter

Heron & Co, in their weekly letter say: The Cobalt market during the week has not exhibited any material change from its recent character. Price movements have been unimportant, and trading was in less volume than for some time. Temiskaming was again the leader in activity, with buying concentrated and selling scattered and persistent, particularly towards the close. There is still much enquiry for information regarding the company's finances.

Markets Are Dull.

A strange proceeding in to-day's markets for Cobaits was the sale of 1000 Co-bait Central at 21, at the Toronto Stock Exchange curb, while the stock was sell-ing at New York upwards or five points higher. A transaction in the opposite direction was a sale of Foster at New York at 59. The both transactions were direction was a sale of Foster at New York at 59. The both transactions were regarded as evidences of market rigging for the purpose of influencing outside opinion. The genuine market for mining securities to-day was about as dull as it has been. The small public participation has made it difficult for professionals to get a turn, and most of these have ceased operating until the markets really broaden out.
