A PLAN TO BEAUTIFY WASTE GROUND IN WEST LONDON

"If the trees and lawns were cared Citizen Has Idea Which Is Thought Well Of.

A West London gentleman is out with an idea for improving the appearance of the hollow south of Dundas street, west of Wilson avenue. There is a small pond in the bottom of the hollow and the sides of it are covered with vines and shrubs. His idea is to purchase the land and remove some of the surplu shrubbery.

"The place could then be made into a sunken garden," he says "The water could be collected into one small pond and flowers planted around the bottom of the garden." If the plan could be carried out with as little expense as he says if is possible to have, the garden would certainly be indorse dby many of the
