THE PRICE OF FLOUR

Editor Times:
Sir—Could you tell me the cause of this sharp advance in the price of flour, now when the outlook is so promising for an abundant harvest in our own northwest. Don't you think there should be a government regulation of things of this kind. It should not be left to a combine to advance the poor man's actual necessity at will, for no other reason than their own personal gain.
The bakers of the city are adverse to advancing the price of bread until necessity compels them. In this age of high prices the bakers feel that it is hard considering the price of butter, lard, eggs and fruit used in cake and pastry, that twenty cents a barrel should be added to their other expenses for no reason whatever. If merchants sold those grades of flour at a fair profit for the past year, why this advance now when the new wheat is about to be placed on the market?
Yours,
CONSUMER.
St. John, September 9, 1907.THE SHOOTING ON
THE SHORE LINE

No Arrests Made Yet—Injured Men on Way to Recovery.

There have yet been no arrests in connection with the shooting affair among the Italians at Prince of Wales. Dr. McFarland, of Fairville, who is a justice of the peace as well as coroner says that he is quite ready to act in his official capacity as soon as information is laid. Dr. McFarland says that there was no liquor sold nor was it customary to keep it in the supply car. Justice Mason, also of Fairville, spoke along the same lines as Dr. McFarland regarding arrests but said that he believed that Magistrate Anderson, of Prince of Wales was the proper person to deal with the matter. All the Italians are doing well and are on the road to recovery. Deputy Chief Constable John de la Roche, who is interpreter went to the hospital last night in an endeavor to get a statement from the men. It was found that as they spoke a variety of dialects, but a meagre account could be got from them. Liquor and money, however, seem to be the cause of all the trouble. They will be kept under surveillance. The work among the other Italians at Prince of Wales is proceeding.
