

banners, the "Spread" was laid in the "Queen's" best style, and there was not a vacant seat at the tables. The cloth having been removed, the usual loyal and patriotic toasts were proposed and responded to, and volunteer toasts, recitations, singing in English and Gaelic, together with music by the piper, all tended to make the occasion one of the most enjoyable anniversaries that the Society ever experienced.

