NEW MEMBER GIANT OF HOUSE

A Story of the Circus Strong, Man and Angus McDonald of Temiskaming.

(Special to Times.)
Ottawa, April 12.—Who will introduce Angus McDonald, the new member for Temiskaming, when he arrives this week to take his place in the House of Commons? This is a question constantly being asked about the parliament buildings just now. The men who claim to know about him can always get a group to hear a tale which is descriptive of the effect that he is a Socialist has created a great deal of curiosity as to who will introduce him.
The farmers themselves do not know, but they say it is not because they are going to draw the garment of exclusiveness from one said to be a Socialist but because they have decided to let Mr. McDonald himself decide who will be his sponsors. He may ask that farmers introduce him as he also has been a farmer in Glengarry, or he may ask to be introduced by Major Andrews, who now represents a great labor constituency in Winnipeg.
Probably Major Andrews and one of the farmer members will be chosen.
"What about McDonald, is he a Socialist?" asked some members of a man "Well, whatever he is, he will be honest about it, I can tell you that," said Halleybury tonight.
Halleybury man, "What's more, Angus of Renfrew will have to look to his laurels as the giant of the House of Commons. I really think McDonald is a bluffer man. They tell the story of him up home that Ringling's circus once 'o'ft and determined to secure him, their strong man, who feared losing his

SHORTER HOURS CUT PRODUCTION FRANCE LEARNS

Arguments for Less Work
Prove Faulty When Tried
By Nation.

Paris, April 12.—Arguments that establishment of the eight hour day would result in as large, or greater, outputs as the ten or twelve hour day have been proved fallacious, so far as France is concerned, by an investigation conducted by the ministry of commerce. Those who have made a study of the French worker, and know his inherent antipathy to being converted into a machine for automatic action, are not surprised by the conclusion that production is decreased in exact proportion to the reduction in the hours of labor. In the merchant marine it has been found necessary to increase the personnel; the working hours were reduced twenty-five per cent. has lost forty per cent. of its output, and makers of bicycles, carriers and other similar machines have found their production cut down to 38-40 per cent. Textile industries centering about Roubaix report manufactures have fallen off twenty per cent. under the eight hour system, and enough operators to handle the work cannot be found. Other industries show similar figures. The result of the investigation while disputed by labor organizations are disputed by the ministry as official.

HE SEES NO LIMIT TO AIRSHIP TRAVEL

Henry Ford Gives His Views on Future of Air Machines.

Detroit, April 12.—"Trans-oceanic airship travel, in ships notable for lightness and speed, rather than lifting power, will be common beyond comment in from three to five years. Berlin and London will be a day from New York, the Pacific will be crossed and such ease of communication will go far toward breaking down the barriers of racial and national antipathy. It will promote one language, one creed."

This is the belief of Henry Ford, who discussed the future of aviation at his office here today.
Development of the air ship as a freight carrier of importance is not considered likely by Mr. Ford. Its chief value, he said, would be as a passenger carrier.
Man is limited only by his imagination, Mr. Ford said. The future of aviation is boundless.
The airship, by promoting contact of peoples, would foster prejudice against war, he said.
Mr. Ford may go into the manufacturing end of the airplane business, it is stated.

ARREST BY ASBELL CAUSED COMMOTION.

An arrest of one of the longshoremen on board the S. S. Cabotia yesterday afternoon almost caused a strike of the longshoremen at work upon her. W. G. Asbell, chief of police of Sussex and an inspector under the prohibition act, arrived in St. John yesterday on special duty and after an investigation at No. 5 shed made the arrest. Inspectors McAnish and Merryfield went to the prisoner and asked him if he had any liquor and, it is said, he told them that he had two bottles. Bail was arranged and the man allowed to go back to work, which satisfied his fellow workmen. The steamer was loaded with liquor.

Woman Said to Have Cleaned Up
$132,000 in Stock

New York, April 12.—Because a Baltimore woman of speculative propensities took a fancy to the lines of a Stutz automobile she made $132,000. At least that is one story told in Wall Street in connection with the Stutz car.
According to this gossip, this woman liked the car so much that she went into a brokerage office and asked a quotation on the stock. That was in 1918, at a time when Stutz speculative sentiment was low. The stock was selling, the woman was told, at $40 a share.

"Buy me 200 shares," she said, and wrote a check for a little more than $8,000.
She put the stock away and watched daily quotations. Many seasoned Wall street speculators got disgusted and sold out, but the Baltimore woman had more faith in her intuition. The woman had set her figure at 400, but the story never reached that on the stock exchange. When it had climbed to 391 the governors suspended trading in it, and the woman found herself without a market.
But she was shrewder than many persons who have had much more experience. She knew many people were short of the stock and would like to settle despite the declared embargo. It occurred to her to offer it at auction, and she did, according to the gossip.
The stock was put up by a brokerage house at the auction: rooms of A. H. Muller & Co., and the woman set $400 as the upset price. That was reached on the second or third bid, and it was knocked down at $701 a share, which showed the woman a net profit of something like $132,000 on the deal. Brokerage houses never disclose the names of their clients, but that doesn't make the story less interesting.
