EASTERN S. S. CO. CHANGE

W. G. Lee has retired from the service of the Eastern Steamship Company and has been succeeded by J. F. Liscombe of Portland, Me. Mr. Liscombe was former agent at Portland and retired about a year ago. Through his previous connection with the company he is already well known to many of the patrons of the line at this port. Mr. Lee has been connected with the St. John office of the company for a period of more than thirty-five years and for the last thirteen years has been general manager, succeeding C. E. Leachner when he later was promoted to the lead office.

Lieut. Graetz, a German traveler who first came by crossing Africa first, in 1891, and was a motor boat, is now going to finance a scheme for sailing over the Guinea in a ship for the purpose of exploring the little known interior of that island. The proposal has been well received in Germany.

RULE OF TERROR IN PORTUGAL

Duchess Writes of Investigations--"No God, No Religion" Badge of School Children

London, April 7--The Daily Mail gives prominence to an article by Adeline, Duchess of Bedford, based on personal investigations in Portugal. She alleges that Portugal is groaning under terrorism which recalls the conditions in Naples and Sicily in the worst days of Bonaparte.

The duchess writes:--"There are spies in every household, the story that walls ears and every window is an eye of the returned days of Bonaparte. The prisons at Lisbon and the provinces are crowded with suspects of every class, the great bulk of whom have not been tried, and it is well known that the judges repair from the provinces to receive orders before passing sentence. A very low class of men spend the days loitering outside the courts prepared to swear to any false accusation in accordance to the amount of fee they receive."

Referring to the suppression of the church, the duchess says: "The name of God is forbidden in the republic. The republic has definitely undertaken the extinction of the Christian faith. The children in the schools are decorated with little badges bearing the words: 'No God, no religion.' The crosses in the cemeteries have been torn down and recently the remains of some nuns have been cast into a pit."

Important Statements by Sir Edward Grey and the German Chancellor

London, April 7--There would have been a European conflagration but for the agreement reached by the powers regarding the frontier of the future state of Albania, according to the opinion expressed by Sir Edward Grey in the Commons this afternoon. He was emphasizing the importance of the naval demonstration now being made on the Montenegrin coast, and the importance of upholding the European agreement on the subject of Albania, which he made the grave statement:

"That agreement is essential to the peace of Europe, and in my opinion it was accomplished only just in time to preserve the peace among the great powers."

Berlin, Dr. Von Bethmann-Hollweg, imperial chancellor, delivered a striking speech, whose keynote was "European conflagration in all probability will not occur, but if outside forces should threaten us, Germany must stand ready with her last man."

The good intentions of the French and Russian governments were beyond question, declared the chancellor, but Germany must reckon with the great force of modern public opinion which, in form of French warlike patriotism and Russian pan-Slavism, threatened the peace of the world.

London, April 7--A Constantinople despatch to the Times says that the council of ministers has decided, while refusing to accept indemnity to the allies, to agree to pay for the maintenance of the prisoners of war on a general scale.

Berlin, Germany, April 7--The German cruiser Strassburg and Dresden sailed from this port today to join the other German warships in the Mediterranean.

WHAT ELEPHANTS EAT

Have Delicate Taste and Cannot Be Easily Deceived

Since the elephant's digestive functions are very rapid, it requires a large amount of fodder daily--about 600 pounds in most cases. In its wild state the elephant feeds heartily but wastefully. It is careful in selecting the best forest trees that it likes for their bark or foliage, but it will strip down branches and leave half of them untouched. It will strip off the bark from other trees and throw away a large portion.

As it is a nocturnal animal, it selects its trees by the sense of touch and smell. Its sense of smell is said to be so delicate that a wild elephant can find an enemy at a distance of 1,000 yards, and the nerves of its trunk are so sensitive that the smallest substance can be discovered and picked up by its tiny proboscis.

An elephant's palate is very delicate, and the animal is whimsical in selecting or rejecting morsels of food. A writer tells of an incident humorously illustrative of the whims of a tame elephant belonging to the police of Dhurburli.

This elephant was fed with rice and plantains. The stems of the plantains were split and cut into transverse sections two feet in length. Three-quarters of each tube of rice was placed within each tube of plantain stem. One day while the elephant was being fed some one offered it a small sweet biscuit. It was taken in the trunk and almost immediately thrown on the ground.

The mishap, thinking that the elephant had behaved rudely, picked up the biscuit and tied it in a parcel of rice within a plantain stem. This was placed in the beast's mouth, and at the very first crunch it allowed its disgust by refusing the whole morsel, the small biscuit had disintegrated by its inserted trunk to rake out every atom from its tongue and throat--Ha per's Weekly.
