HISTORY OF BRAZIL

How it has prospered under the reign of the Emperor.

New York, Nov. 15.—The Brazilian cabinet, as it was constituted when the Almanac de Gotha for 1889 was published, was composed of Senator Joao Alfredo Correa de Oliveira, president of the council and minister of finance; Deputy Jose Fernandes Da Costa Pereira, minister of the interior; Deputy Antonio Ferraz Vianna, minister of justice; Senator Antonio Da Silva Prado, minister of foreign affairs; Senator Lino Antonio Vieira Da Silva, minister of marine; Senator Thomaz Jose Goulart Almeida, minister of war and Deputy Roderigo Augusto Da Silva, minister of public works, commerce and agriculture.

The long reign of Dom Pedro II, which has lasted now for almost 60 years, has been marked by a spirit of progress. The revolution of 1821 resulted in the separation of Brazil from Portugal, with Dom Pedro, son of Dom John of Portugal, as Emperor. A constitution was adopted in 1824, but disputes arose between the Emperor and the Chamber of Deputies and in 1831 he abdicated in favor of his 5-year-old son, Dom Pedro II. The country was governed by a regency until 1841, when the Emperor, formally crowned, assumed the reins of government.

Measures for the enfranchisement and improvement of the empire were introduced by the government from the first year of the regency, when a law was passed preparing for the abolition of the slave trade which was finally accomplished in 1850.

The Legislative Assembly consists of the Senate and Chamber of Deputies. There are 60 members of the upper house and 120 in the lower. Since 1881 both senators and deputies have been elected by the direct vote of the people. Universal suffrage has not yet been attained, as a voter must possess a yearly income of about $300, and monks and servants are not entitled to vote.

For life and the deputies for three years. The Chamber of Deputies has the initiative in the assessment of taxes and in matters concerning the army and navy. The Senate has the right to convolve the legislative assembly should the Emperor fail to do so within two months after the date fixed by law. The Emperor, through his council of ministers, commands the army and navy, and declares war and peace and exercises the prerogative of pardon. He may dissolve the Chamber of Deputies and may grant amnesty and pardon. Each province has its Legislature, elected for two years. The Emperor has the right of primary education, municipal taxation, local imports and exports, and the right to appoint and remove judges. The Emperor has a total area of 2,200,000 square miles, and a population of 12,000,000.

The government has had to meet a deficit in its resources every year for the last 10 years. The Emperor has been obliged to pay the foreign debt by the sale of the Empire's lands. The Emperor has been obliged to pay the foreign debt by the sale of the Empire's lands. The Emperor has been obliged to pay the foreign debt by the sale of the Empire's lands.

THE BRAZILIAN REPUBLIC

The very slight hold which the monarchy of Brazil has on the affections of its people is singularly illustrated by the history of the revolution which, in one day, converted Brazil from an Empire to a Republic. Although Dom Pedro had reigned for more than half a century and had been regarded as a good ruler, there does not seem to have been the slightest feeling of loyalty to him. The Emperor made by any one in Brazil to save his crown. The Brazilian Empire passed with as little notice as if it had never existed. The Emperor was regarded as the monarch of Charles X. of France, or of Louis Philippe or the Emperor of Napoleon III.

Brazil, although nominally an empire was in reality, under its constitution a limited monarchy, although it would seem that the government itself was illiberal than its forms would have indicated. For a long time the people of Brazil have been dissatisfied with the manner in which the country was being governed and nothing but the personal popularity of the emperor, who had been a good and useful man in his day, prevented a revolution from taking place long ago. As the Emperor had no sons the throne was to pass to the throne, an arrangement which they did not regard with any degree of satisfaction. They considered that the female members of the Imperial family had already too much share in the government of the country, and the revolution was no doubt hastened by this cause.

NOTE AND COMMENT

Every one remarked that the Globe was as dull as dishwater on Sunday evening, the only paragraph of interest in it being one clipped from an exchange which showed that Great Britain owned about two-thirds of the steam tonnage of the world and more than one-third of the tonnage of sailing vessels. The Globe's editor must have given out this item in a fit of absent-mindedness, for it illustrates to the fullest extent the maritime supremacy of a nation which the Globe cordially hates.

The sailing ship of the Allan line which reached Halifax on Saturday night, after discharging 500 tons of freight, proceeded to Portland, Me., to discharge the rest of the cargo, which is destined for the Upper Provinces. This state of affairs has been continued for many years and it is time to wonder why the United States has not been more active in the discharge of her cargo for the Upper Provinces. The cargo which was discharged at Halifax, was intended for St. John.

The editorial published in the Times, in reference to St. John harbor and the wreck in regard to the chain in the Admiralty charts, have been widely distributed, and have attracted a great deal of attention abroad. The secretary of the Board of Trade has received letters from many quarters in regard to the Times' articles, all expressing satisfaction that the harbor of St. John has been vindicated. This is the more gratifying to us as none of our city contemporaries published anything on the subject, they apparently not being interested in making known the advantages of this port.

Sir Charles Tupper did not go to Spain on treaty business but to obtain points in regard to the successful working of the Sudbury copper mines. For this purpose he went to the Spanish copper mines at Rio Tinto in company with Mr. Ritchie, who is engaged in the development of the copper and nickel mines at Sudbury, in the section of country above the north shore of Lake Superior which the main line of the Canadian Pacific railway is opening up. Not only did the Rio Tinto Company afford a private car for the journey from Mexico but they placed a house and servants at the disposal of the high commissioner while he was there, and afforded him and Mr. Ritchie every possible opportunity of noting the magnitude of the enterprise. The full explanation was that the company was satisfied Sir Charles was a reliable man and that the copper industry can be carried on with so low a grade of ore, a most encouraging fact undoubtedly exists for the establishment of a like industry at Sudbury, where the circumstances are infinitely more favorable.

THE COMING CENSUS

The next census of Canada will take place in the course of about 16 months, and already preparations are being made at Ottawa with a view to this important event. It is to be hoped that the coming census will be more satisfactory than the last one was, both with respect to the manner in which it is taken and the time occupied in publishing its results. It is also to be hoped that the system of enumeration adopted, which gave Quebec so great an advantage over the other provinces will be abandoned and that the census will be a real statement of the population of that province. In Great Britain the census is taken in one day and the enumeration is made to include every person who has slept in each house the night previous. In Canada the census papers are filled out so as to give the population on a certain day, but persons temporarily absent from their homes were included in the enumeration. It is believed that in Quebec a considerable proportion of the persons who had emigrated to the United States were included in the last census.
