A big Business Being Done in Shipping the Wild Fruit of Douglas Mountain ond Vicinity. On the way to Woodstock yesterday with the City Cornet Band excursion the train stopped a few minutes at Welsford station to water the locomotives. During the stop the excursionists had a good chance to view the Douglas mountain which looms up a short distance from the station and to those who knew or were then informed of its features the mountain was an object of deep interest. Mr. William Hawker joined the excursionists at Welsford and in a conversation with a GAZETEE reporter he gave a very interesting description of points of attraction which the Douglas mountain possesses and told of the extent of its crop and the way it is gathered.  At Welsford station were noticed piles of crates filled with round boxes. "Those" explained Mr. Hawker, "are slimost air tight, and there are thirty two of them in a crate. There is a large business being done now at Welsford in shipping blue berries to the American market. Last year about $15,000 worth was sent away and it is thought that this season the shipments will be much greater. These berries are the crop of Douglas mountain and vicinity.
