Apparatus seized.

Flanked on either side by an armed soldier and only permitted to take such pictures as permitted by the miltery authorities, was the experience of Frank Waid, a moving picture operator, who is at present in the city for the purpose of taking pictures of the city and harbor.

Mr. Waid, arrived here on Friday and had some difficulty in getting his nachine through the customs. After this was accomplished he thought his troubles had ended but on Saturday morning he was waited upon by Lleut. Col. B.-R. Armstrong and his camera and films taken into custody until the military authorities at Halifax could be communicated with.

During Saturday afternoon Mr. Wait received permission to take pictures of the soldier boys marching down King street, on their way to the station and he was allowed to take the picture with his camera set up at the foot of King street and under the guard of two soldiers. As soon as the picturer was taken the appartus was again placed under the custody of the military authorities.

PATRIOTIC SERVICE

IN CARLETON CHURCH Judge Forbes and H. A.

Powell give stirring addresses on Patriotic

A grand patriotic service was held in the Carleton Methodist church last yening when H. A. Powell, K. C. and Judge Forbes delivered addresses of patriotic nature. Rev. H. A. Thom-ise, pastor of the church, conducted the service and there was a large au-lience present.

ence present. Judge Forbes referred to the his-strong appeal for the citizens of the empire to do their part in helping in every possible way.

H. A. Fowell referred to the present struggle and pointed out that the people of Engalnd were for peace and in view of the fact that the government of England was striving for peace, the war which had been forced upon them was a just one. The speaker made a strong appeal to the citizens and pointed out that the fall of England meant the fall of the empiremand the termination of a citizenship that was worth while.

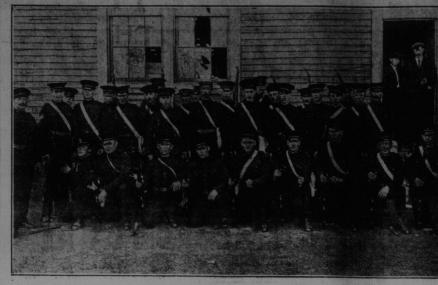

The church was nicely decorated with flags and bunting and the music rendered during the service was of a patriotic nature.

ed from a fund raised during the South African war, had been donated to the Canadian patriotic fund.

Sir Rorbert Borden in reply to queries by members as to whether the fund would apply to Canadians who were called out on active service in Canada itself, stated that this, was the intention of the house.

Mr. F. B. Carvell asked what would be the status of Canadian soldiers serving in the present crisis in Canadian in regard to pensions, etc.

The premier said the matter would be governed by the provisions of the militia act.

The closing hour of the afternoon session in the house of commons open ed with some desultory questions which elicited from Col. the Hon. Sam Hughes, who was present in uniform, the statement that 10,000 troops would be in camp at Valcartier today, and that no man would be sent abroad in a Canadian expeditionary force, unless he volunteered for service. Col. Hughes said there were 100,000 volunteers for active service, although only 22,000 were needed at present. "They are climbing on the trains so persistently that we can't keep them off," he declared, amid applause. "I feel that we can't keep them off," he declared, amid applause. "I feel that we can't keep them off," he declared, amid applause. "I declared to say that in my judgment the measures taken by the Canadian government up to the present time have been characterized by energy, vision and effectiveness. I feel that the action of the opposition has been patriotic.
