SHAMROCKS WON TEN INNING GAME FROM MAPLES YESTERDAY

In a 10-inning game yesterday the Shamrocks defeated Harry Ballard's ball manipulators on St. Peter's grounds. The score up to the seventh inning stood 3-1 in favor of the Shamrocks, but McIntyre and Butler crossed the threshold evening up matters. From the seventh inning to the end of the game both teams worked their hardest and played a brand of ball that would make the oldest fan sit up and take notice.

Knaudson for the Shamrocks twirled some ball but his field support was not as it should have been. He had eight strike outs and only walked one man. Gorman is the right man with the bat; his playing was almost fantastic. The Maples had Fitzgerald on the mound. He had McNulty for his battery of the Thistles and for a hurry-up call handled Fitzgerald splendidly.

The tenth inning brought the fans to their feet, when Haggerty punished the third ball up for a home run, bringing in the two Howards ahead of him. It was a drop and Haggerty certainly laid to it and placed it in the left hand bleachers. This is the first home run scored this season in any official game.

The line-up follows:
The score by innings:
Maples 000000000—3
Shamrocks 000100200—6

A Few Bright Spots.
Lost—On or near Brown's Flats, a baseball with home-run attachment. Please kindly return to Fitzgerald and receive abuse.
It can be done Elliot but it is a little early to start catching 'em with your teeth.
One can easily understand a ball passing over Percy Howard's head, but he is close enough to his work to pick up the grounders.
Johnnie muffed everything that came his way, except one—it went over his head.
The diving girls have nothing on Dever. He will not perform this evening.
For a sprained wrist—1 glass full of cold water in a rusty mug—applied three weeks after the accident occurs.
Mike O'Neill, now managing the Syracuse club in the New York State league, was playing in Scranton in 1898, when the manager of the club received a letter from a schoolboy pitcher in Factoryville, Pa., asking for a tryout.
"As the kid only wanted expenses to come down to Scranton for a trial, we decided to give him an opportunity," says O'Neill. "He came down and looked like a pretty good pitcher, but didn't set the world on fire, and after pitching a few amateur games around there he went home and later went to college."
Upon graduating from college, he joined the professional ranks and attained some prominence. You've probably heard of him. His name is Christy Mathewson. But I'll never forget the first time I saw him—just a big, high-haired kid, ambitious to make good as a pitcher."

ROSES DEFEATED THISTLES IN ONE-SIDED CONTEST LAST NIGHT

Hansen's baseball tribe scalped the Thistle aggregation in a loose game on Tuesday evening. The score was something like 12 to 4, terminating in the seventh, inning.
Up to the third inning the Thistles were playing clever ball, but they went to the woods when Lynch placed the sphere in "no man's land," furnishing free transportation for Hansen and O'Toole. After that there was an epidemic of errors among the Thistle players. They could field nothing, and their throwing—good night. Of course the cold weather would cause the arm to be a little stiff, but it did not affect the Roses quite so bad.
Doyle pitched good ball up until the fourth when he lost heart on account of his poor support. Dever was away off in his throwing and did not play his usual game.
The star of the night was "Wet-Jay." He shows up best when suffering defeat. His base running is on a par with Milan's, although Milan has probably a little more speed.
Hansen and O'Toole were the "big guns" for the Roses, and discharged their duties in fine form. Hansen's pitching is underrated by the majority of batters who face him, hence his long list of strike outs each game. Lynch and Donnelly did clever work with the willow, both having a three bagger to take home.

The score by innings:
Thistles 000103—4
Roses 002217—12
The lineup follows:
Roses Thistles
Hansen Doyle
O'Toole Dever
Lynch McNulty
Meyers Gibbons
McMurray Lenihan
Donnelly Calahan
E. Harrington Milaa
J. Harrington McCormick
McGuire White

GERMANS WOULD STOP FOOTBALL

Moving to Abolish Game Because It Is British.

They are straining football in Germany now because it is an importation from England. The semi-official "Colony Gazette" has been giving space to a number of super-patriotic communications advocating that football, which has come to enjoy enormous popularity, should be banned henceforth on account of its origin, and schachball—a game in which a ball of the dimensions of a medicine ball is thrown, punched, and passed about instead of kicked—substituted for the game invented in these hated British Isles. The "Colony Gazette" treacherously disapproves the suggestion. It points out that while football came to Germany as it did to the rest of the world, from Britain, "it is essentially a Germanic sport," and "we have every reason to be satisfied with the physical benefits it has conferred on German youth." It was the journal remarks, "in this exceptional case, no fatal gift like those the Greeks were wont to present, and when the war statistics of the German Football League are some day published they will constitute a very unpleasant message of gratitude to the English schoolmaster." It was stated early in the war that 150,000 members of the German Football League were with the colors.

New Orleans, La., May 24.—Announcement was made last night by the matchmaker for a local boxing organization that arrangements have been completed for a match here May 29 between Harry Wills, of New Orleans, and Jeff Clark, of Denver, the first of a proposed negro heavyweight elimination series. The winner of the Wills-Clark bout, it was announced, would meet Sam McVey and the final contest would be between the winner of the McVey fight and Jack Johnson. If Johnson could not return to the United States for the final bout of the series, the matchmakers stated, the match would be staged either in Havana or Juarez.
"stutter" around the bag.
A heated collision on the New York, New Haven and Hartford railroad has nothing on the McGuire, Dever and Howard makeup.
McAnulty dropped everything except his glove—was tied on.
Because Donnelly didn't stop and talk to Joe Pace at first he was called out.

"JIM" THORPE A FAILURE

Olympic Champion Couldn't Hold Big League Pace—Back to Minors.

In the matter of remodeling things and persons nearer to the heart's desire, some writers contend that Lo the poor Indian is stubborn clay. The ambitious potter who would contract to remodel Mr. Lo according to his own ideas of usefulness had a tough task.
Passing over many instances outside the sporting realm illustrating the point, we come to the case of John McGraw, potter extraordinary to the New York Baseball Club.
John J. bought a promising bit of material in James Thorpe, the Fox and Sac Indian, famed the world over for his unequalled prowess on athletic and football fields. In 1912 Thorpe had just proved himself the greatest all-round physical star in a test against all the world's best at Stockholm.
John after laying down the price of an imported six-cylinder car plus a year's gasoline supply for his wonderful assemblage of co-ordinating atoms, thought that, with a master's pat here and a touch there, he could convert this splendid runner, jumper, hurdler and weight man into the greatest baseball player the world ever knew.

So confident was McGraw that, in addition to the purchase price, he agreed to pay Mr. Lo J. Thorpe a princely number of bucks per annum for six semesters, to wit, three years—time enough to make over the map of Europe or run down Villa.
But it was not time enough for remodeling Jim Thorpe. The figures indicate that the task is all but impossible. While improvement was shown, it was slight, not at all in proportion to the labor and money expended. Here are the figures on Thorpe's big league work in three seasons:
Year G. A. B. R. H. S. B. Av.
1915 17 52 8 12 4 .281
1914 30 31 5 6 1 .195
1913 19 36 6 5 2 .142
This is a three-year batting average of .193, or less than is expected of a great many pitchers.
In the three years Thorpe scored 19 runs, each of which cost the New York club approximately $1,000, counting salary, bonus and money spent in training.
