Clothing Likely Caught Fire from Lamp and She Fell to Floor

Alone in House at the Time and Firemen Arrive to Find Her Writhing on the Floor, Her Dress Afire—Dead by Time Flames Were Smothered—Had Been Subject to Fainting Attacks.

Friday, Nov. 6.

Mrs. Sarah Wigmore, widow of W. A. Wigmore, was burned to death last night about 7.39 o'clock, in the home of her son-in-law, Robert Bailey, 32 Erin street. No one knows exactly how the tragedy occurred as the old lady was alone in the house at the time.

The fire department, responding to alarm from box 17, was prompt in reaching the house, and just as the firemen entered the front door they heard Mrs. Wigmore the fire department, responding to alarm from box 17, was prompt in reaching the house, and just as the firemen entered the front door they heard Mrs. Wigmore the table and the window with her head touching the wall. The house was quickly cleared of the body as a horrible sight. It did not take long too mithe floor between the table and the unfortunate woman was by that time dead. The house was a horrible sight. It did not take long too mither of the reaching to smother out the flames but the unfortunate woman was by that time dead. The house was quickly cleared of the curious crowd which had gathered, and been subject to fainting spells. When the body was lifted from the floor the remains of a small lamp were found under her and it is supposed that she was carrying the lamp lighted, when it set fire to her dress. Nothing else in the room was burned, and even the carpet on which she lay was only tharred.

It was only a few minutes after the house and the carpet on which she lay was only tharged.

Christopher Pettley the senator did not know so well but he had the reputation of being an industrious man. The man in whose house the fight took place is an Austrian, not a Russian, as stated in previous reports. He is a comparative stranger, having been in Minto only a few months.

One result of the stabbing attray has been the exclusion of all Italian labor from the mines. On Sunday night after the tragedy a clerk in the King Lumber Company's store in Minto called up Mr. King in Chipman and told him the facts. Endine, who had made his escape, was soon after captured by Detective Belyea and Constable William Upton. The prisoner speaks very imperfect English. Coordin was also lodged in the Burton jail as a witness. This left one Italian at work in the King mine and he was dicharged.

James Barnes had seven or eight Italians working for him and these also have been discharged.

The senator, continuing, said this is the first case of that nature which he rements.

The senator, continuing, said this is the first case of that nature which he remembers in that end of Queens county. It is the first serious trouble they have experienced in the mines. The work on the transcontinental has also proceeded, on the whole, very quietly and the senator speaks well of the Italians working on that road. They are, he said, quiet and inoffensive on the average and if left alone are disposed to be law abiding.

The schooner was leaking badly, the main boom and rigging had been carried away and the vessel was practically helpless in the raging sea when a fishing vessel appeared and, after much trouble all the mines and on Saturday, he said, there were on the Central Railway going to Minto a number of men who openly displayed large quantities of intoxicants. He did not know who these men were but said they were responsible for the whole trouble.

Concerning the men implicated in the tragedy, Senator King continued, they worked for his son, G. H. King, in the mine he owns. John Endine, the Italian, and his son is now with him. He had also been in Minto for a considerable time.

An unusual feat in pontoon bridge building has been accomplished by a company 100 strong, drawn from four cavalry regiments of the Berlin gurrison, says the Dundee Advertiser. Arrived at a point where the Spree is very wide, the guardsmen, assisted by a dozen pioneers, constructed in forty minutes a bridge of steel boats and plates 108 feet long and 10 feet board. A squadron of Cuirassier guards was the first to try it, riding twice across. Then a loaded to try it, riding twice across. Then a loaded to try it, riding twice across.
