Mine Family.

Dimpled cheeks and eyes of blue,
Mouth like it was moist with dew,
And like the teeth that pecked at droop—
That's mine family.

Curly head, and full of glee,
Browsers all out of the knee,
He was been blazin' horse you see,
That's mine family.

Her hundred sixty in der shade,
Der oder day ven she was veiged—
She beats me soon I was avraid—
That's mine family.

Her footed leg, and peety stout,
Mif grooked legs dot vill bend out,
Fond of his beer and sauer kraut,
That's mine family.

Yon schmal young baby, full of fun,
Yon eodie, priggish, and a bit of dun,
Yon frau to greet vein voh was done,
That's mine family.

HUMOROUS.

Facious Tramp-car rider: "What! is the old Noah's Ark full?" Second facious ditto: "No. Just room for the donkey. Step in!"—"Fanny Folks."

An Irish pig, who now and then indulged in a glass too much, was accosted by a gentleman with—"Pat, what makes your face so red?"—"Plase yer honour," said Pat, "I always blush when I speaks to a gentleman."

"Well, Pat, I think Barney has not acted the friend to you; but you'll forgive him, won't you?" "Oh, save entirely, yer honor; an' the first time I have the pleasure of meeting him I'll give him a present of two of the most beautiful black eyes you ever seen."

A preacher who differed in opinion with Adolphus Gunn called upon him, and being known was denied admittance, Mr. Gunn being away in his study. "Tell him," said the important visitor, "that the servant of the Lord wishes to speak to him." Gunn sent back this answer, "Tell the servant of the Lord that I am engaged with his master."

Lord Chief Justice Holt in early life was very dissipated and belonged to club of wild fellows, most of whom took an infamously course of life. One day when his lordship was engaged at the old Bailey a man was convicted of highway robbery whom the judge remembered to have been one of his old companions. Moved by curiosity, Holt, thinking the prisoner did not know him, asked what had become of his old associates. The culprit making a low bow and fetching a deep sigh, replied, "Ah, my lord, they are all hanged but your lordship and I!"

"Wass Dan Arsony."

Brother Gardner was seeking a job around the Central Market, yesterday, when he came across a young colored friend who was rigged out in a new suit of clothes and a lot of flashy jewelry. After a lengthy survey of the outfit the old man asked:

"My friend, what am your income at de present time?"

"'Bout six dollars a week," was the answer.

"And is you puttin' on all that glory on a dollar a da'! Show 'em! but I didn't 'pose dem was such a fool-nigger in Detroit! Dat's a wuss case than arsony."

"Hasn't I de right to wear good clothes if I earn dem?" protested the other.

"No, sah, you hasn't. De 'poper way for you to do is to frow all dat brass jewelry away, put on common clothes, an' go 'round lookin' like dat dollar a day was 'bout keepin' your head above water. Ize got a house an' de parlor, an' a picture of General Grant all framed up in gilt, but does I go 'round lookin' like I owned de City Hall? Does I flog on style till you can't 'rest? Does I try to make out dat I am John Jacob Astor? Boy, you want to quit dat business. Frow away that gorgeous glory; put some mud on your boots, an' come along wid me an' hold de pal while I white-wash a fence."—Detroit Free Press.

The Witness.

It was a sad thing for Lettie Davis when she put out her washing on the clothes-lines of her South Fifth Avenue abode recently. Peterson Knapp was there on the watch, and it is alleged carried off the raiment, part and parcel. At all events, a policeman arrested him for the offence, and he went to the Jefferson Market police court prepared to maintain his innocence by counsel. Lettie was there, too, and in spite of numerous trying interruptions from the counsel, she got down to the point in her narrative where she discovered Peterson knowingly eying the clothes as he hung them out.

"Dat brack nigger," she said, ungenitely apostrophizing the prisoner, "the stoop had on one clay pipe showed what it 'ud do the most good, and he a puffin' as if he'd like to split. But de way he looked at dem clothes was quite 'nuff to show any reasonable woman dat dey wa'n't safe."

"Come witness," quoth counsel, sarcastically, "tell us just 'what kind of a look that is?"

"Oh, you got out," was the snappish rejoinder.

"I insist on that question; how did the

Intending Insurers Will Note.

1st. That the "London Mutual" was the pioneer of cheap farm insurance in Canada, and that its rates have always been placed as low as is compatible with the hazard; that, being Very Mutual, it has no stockholders, and all profits are added to its reserve fund to give better security to its members.

2nd. That it is the only Company that has always strictly adhered to one class of business, and now has more property at risk in the Province of Ontario alone than any other Company—stock or mutual—English, Canadian or American, (by Government Return).

3rd. That it has paid nearly a million dollars in compensation for losses, having distributed the same in nearly every township in the Province.

4th. That its books and affairs are always open to the inspection of the members, and the Directors are desirous that the privilege should be exercised.
