STRUCK POPULAR FANCY.

The Toronto News recently had the following to say editorially of Chatham boy :-

"Arthur Stringer, the Canadian poet, and teller of tales, has struck the popular fancy in his new novel, "The Wire Tappers." The action is swift and intensely interesting; so much so, that the book is being dramatized by Owen Davis for production during the coming New York season. The English rights to the story have been purchased by Werner Laurie, and an Australian edition will also be issued. It is a matter for satisfaction that Mr. Stringer has caught the world's ear. Not be cause he is a Canadian and a 'Varsity man, but because he is a conscientious and untiring worker. His

A flirtation is in progress between Learnington gas companies and the city of Chatham. If Chatham does not yield soon to have gas carried there, the companies threaten to come to Windsor for a market. On the principle that wooing is easier with a widow than a spinster, the widow than a spinster, the would-be vendors of gas should have come to Windsor first.—Windsor Wendown the coming is according to Chatham I After us, Mr. Record man.
