commerce. Every day brings the sad news of increasing famine, thousands of our fellow creatures, men, women & children without food, fire or shelter, (driven as they are by insecure tenue to the most wretched habitations) and faring on the coarsest food, sparingly doled out from the alms of a pitying world. And this hunger, neglected sickness and woe in the very locality of 'The wild sports of the West,' and "Auburn" but faintly pictured by Maxwell and Goldsmith. Want and misery in the place of the fay and folic, song and repartee of Lever and Samuel Lover; instead of "Health and plenty" there is sickness and want. Mountains of scenic grandeur clambered by hungry children, and green race courses untrod except by tottering feet of famished men and women. Where Almighty God seems to suspend His Providence, in that once-favored land by disease among their cattle, blighted crops, and continued wet seasons, a world-wide exsended wet seasons, a world-wide sympathy can alone support the sufferers. It is needless to say that the Irish at home are industrious, hard working and honest, for even now with all their privations there are no traces of communism or tobbery. They bear their suffering nobly, as coming the cent. Ask your Druggist for the communism of the provision in the measure breakt, ask your Druggist for the communism of the provision in the measure breakt, situation and the mouth—brightest, cosiest little gem extant. Ask your Druggist for the provision in the continued wet seasons, a world-wide are no traces of communism or tobbery. They bear their suffering nobly, as coming from Him who can "give and take away."

Again I appeal to the noblest feelings of our Citizens in behalf of suffering Ireland. our Citizens in behalf of suffering Ireland.
In gratitude we must not forget her prompt contribution of a cargo of food and ciothing when we were afflicted by the great Miramichi fire. Let us then respond to her cry for help and give cheerfully, especially when we are looking forward to increasing

Sproule gave facts to show that the National Policy had done good already and would do more good each year of its continuance. King decried the statements of Sir Leonard respecting New Brunswick, and endeavored to show that St. John City had lost near ly her whole trade owing to the bad effects of the N. P. He averred that gentlemen in the House from New ment, found themselves humiliated because of pledges they have given on the strength of Sir Leonard's statements. He believed that if the census should be taken next year, the population of New Brunswick would found to have decreased during the last ten years. After the usual routine proceedings, Mr. Domville continued the debate on the budget. He addressed himself in the first place to Mr. King's remarks. He said the Opposition from New Brunswick had done their utmost to damage the city of St. John, to damage the Intercolonial Railway, to damage the Intercolonial Railway, to damage the general interests of that Province. He gave instances of prosperity under the National Policy .-Mr. King had admitted that Messrs. Parks' cotton factory had prospered under the new fariff; that was more than could be said of factories under the fiscal legislation of Mr. Mackenzie. He showed how the policy of the Government as to the West India trade had benefited St. John. He believed that the Minister of Finance was to be praised because he looked to the development of the whole country. If the North West filled up rapidly, the cities by the seaboard would be beneficially affected. On the money policy of the Government the money policy of the Government the money policy of the Government he said he believed in the Government increasing the paper issue to twenty millions. He wished to see the Banking Policy of the Government hand in hand with the National Policy in the development of the country. He thought that if the Government would velop that more coal would be wanted than under the present arrangement. There were complaints about the duty 10,000 lbs. do. Netting, for Ledges, on flour and corn. The Oppositio were loud in making complaints about these duties, but they gave the. Gov't no thanks for reducing the duty on molasses. The petition sent up from St. John was signed only by opponents of the Government. The Gov't a strong outside cord for trimming rope to, making the nets more durable. had put a duty on wool and thus afforded protection to the farmers of New Brunswick, and under the Nahal Policy the farmers were making progress. Under any circumstances, the present Government had honestly tried to put the country in a good condition, and in this respect they differed wide as the poles from the last
