Blowing Up Icebergs.

In 1912 the year of the Titanic wreck, a conference was held in London and it was agreed that all nations engaged in Atlantic traffic should co-operate to maintain an International ice patrol. All parties were to contribute to the expense, but the actual work was assigned to the United States which used the Navy and afterward the Coast Guard steamers which now includes the U.S.S. Tampa and Modoc which make their headquarters at Halifax. Last year attempts were made to blow up icebergs with TNT mines. There was one failure but a few days later a ship was placed and fired successfully. A writer in The Expressive Engineer says:

It was aimed to place the mine to capsize the berg. Selecting the berg location, a line was shot over the berg with a shoulder-gun and the mine was attached to the projectile end of the line and so placed as to be about 30 feet under water. On firing, a large amount of ice came down, and the berg commenced to rise slowly. Emerging perhaps 25 feet it then broke squarely in two each of the pieces having about one third of the original volume the other third being accounted for in small growlers and brash ice. Twenty-four hours later, both halves had disintegrated completely.

There is something more than scientific interest in this work as an indirect as well as a direct benefit. It is a fine example of international co-operation and of the use of explosives, not to smash buildings and human bodies but to against a common enemy.

PAY PART OF IT NOW

In the old-time school the mathematics class felt it had a mar's job when it was wrestling with the division in the arithmetic devoted to "partial payment". It is so in business. "Partial payments prove to be big problems. The temptation comes in time of slowing down to postpone payment of an entire obligation, oftentimes when the cash to pay all is not easily accessible. The temptation is not to pay at all if not pay all. But there never was a more dangerous business to pursue.

If you cannot pay all of that bill you owe, pay part of it. It is the dollar that's moving that helps. The school boy of a generation ago found that when he had mastered "partial payments" he had gained confidence in his own accuracy. His systematic method of work his ability to stick to a problem until it was solved. It is so with business. Partial payment is the surest method of reaching the stage for the red line and the balancing.

The dollar that is started to work now will do the work of ten before it quits—and come back ready as ever for new duties.

THE WEEKLY PAPER

An ex-Governor has the following to say about the value of a weekly paper in the community:

"Each year the local paper gives from $500 to $1,000 in free lines to the community in which it is located. No other agency can or will do this. The Editor, in proportion to his means; does more for his own town than any other man; and in all fairness he ought to be supported—not because you like him or admire his writings; but because the local paper is the best investment a community can make. It may not be brilliantly edited or crowded with thought; but financially it is of more benefit to the community than the preacher or teacher. Understand me I do not mean mentally; and yet on moral questions you will find most of the papers on the right side. Today the editors of the local papers do the most for the least money of any people on earth."
