Selfishness and Giving.

By RUTH CAMERON.

In my evening paper the other day I read that a certain well-known life prisoner, who has recently died in prison, asked in his last letter to his wife, when he knew that he was nearing death, that his body be cremated and his ashes scattered to the four winds of Heaven.

She Didn't Approve Of Cremation.

It seems to me I can, but evidently his wife cannot, for the item went on to say that she does not approve of cremation, and was considering where to bury him.

Isn't that typical of a certain class, the people who will go to infinite trouble and expense for their friends, but persist in doing for them and living them only the things they themselves want, even when they do not know these are the things their friends want, and sometimes when they actually know they are not.

She Gives Cut Glass Because She Loves It.

"I always give cut glass for a wedding present," a friend of mine says, naively, "because I can never get enough of it." Strangely enough there are people who can.

"You don't think she'd like a book better than flowers?" I heard one woman ask another in regard to a gift they were sending to a sick friend. "She has so many flowers, and I know she reads omnivorously." "Oh, let's send her flowers!" persisted the other. "I do so love to get flowers when I'm ill."

A very clever woman who honors me by being my letter friend, has had her troubles with the type, for she writes me the following experience.

A Birthday Card But No Desk Handles.

"Some time ago I wrote a hardware firm in the East for a particular kind of handle for a desk. The firm told me the price, and said they would mail handles. I sent them a check and for many weeks the desk went without the handles. I could get no reply from the firm, and was in despair. I wrote to a friend to ask if she could not try to find out what the trouble was, and told her the inconvenience I was suffering. She replied that she had not been within a couple of blocks of the store, and did not often go in that direction. A few days later she sent me a birthday card with a charming sentiment. She prides herself on sending appropriate cards, and spends hours looking for them. I can assure you I was not particularly grateful—I was so provoked at having her spend the time in her way of doing a nice thing, rather than in the practical way I really wanted. Again I write to a city friend and ask how the skirts are being made this season, as I have engaged a dressmaker for next week and am uncertain. She replies by describing the opera she has attended recently. Another, who knows I love recipes for new dishes, tells me of the dinners she has gone to, and the trouble she has had with her cook, but she does not think of describing the food—and so it goes! I know that probably I do the same thing myself, but when we are going to give, whether it's a letter or a material Gift, or a service, why can't we think what will really please the recipient, instead of what pleases us?"

Why, indeed?

Open Hall.

The season has come around once more for the usual trade of potato digging, and people are very busy at the work, but owing to disagreeable weather it has not been very satisfactory in doing so. The crop is very fair this year with practically the whole of the people.

The two schooners belonging to this place have arrived home from the Labrador with their small catches of fish. The Majestic with 130 quintals, and the Mary C. with 117 quintals, the two boats having fished home before going to the Labrador, the former hauling for 110 quintals and the latter for 120 quintals.

There is a little opposition here now in buying fish. Mr. Pat Walsh is buying for James Baird, Ltd., and Mr. P. Kelly for Pease and Co.; Captain L. Blandford is freighting the former fish, and Ryan is freighting the latter. Captain Alward, of the N. Prince is her getting his fish cured, he did fairly well at the Labrador, an average of 400 quintals. The people are anxiously awaiting a fine day to make their fish and "get it off their hands."

There arrived at Plate Cove to-day the corpse of a young man named James Tracey, son of James, who was recently killed at Boston. To the sorrowing friends very much sympathy is felt.

The S. S. Dundee failed to call at all her ports on Wednesday past owing to being a little delayed, which hindered many young people from getting to Grand Falls who were anxiously awaiting her whistle to "call them"; hope that she will make all her ports of call the remainder of the year unless delayed by bad weather.

I regret that our Newfoundland Regiment is under fire in the Dardanelles, but I am pleased there are no more casualties lists than have been published.

Squid is fairly plentiful here now, which employs several boats and men every afternoon, but still it seems like fish do not "bite" well.

Open Hall, Oct. 16th, 1915.

Portia Back.

The S. S. Portia, Capt. J. Kean, arrived back from western ports last night, after a round trip passage of 12 days during which the ship called at Sydney and bunkered there. She brought a full freight and as passengers in saloon—B. Peel, T. Pearce, W. P. Kelly, A. Hillier, J. Bonnell, W. J. Bonnell, W. Lamb, T. J. Isaacs, J. R. Cheesman, M. Tornhill, and 20 in steerage.

BANKERS HOME.

With few exceptions from the Grand Bank and Burin virtually all the S. W. Coast bankers have finished up the voyage for this season and have either returned to the home ports already are on their way home. The Portia passed several bankers yesterday off Cape Race. They were coming from the Labrador, and when the Portia was at Burin on Sunday the banking schooner Donald G. Hollett, Capt. Tom Hollett, arrived there. This banker put into this port about a fortnight ago, it will be remembered, on her way home from Labrador. After leaving here she went to the "Virgins" to use up her clam bait, but it appears she met with no success, as she did not augment her catch, which was 4300 quintals of fish when she was here.

VOYAGE GOOD.

According to reports brought along by the Portia the banking voyage on the whole is considered good and that the aggregate catch is equal to if not in excess of what it was last year.

You're Bilious! Let "Cascarets" Liven Liver and Bowels

Don't stay headachy, constipated, sick, with bad breath and stomach sour.

Get a 10-cent box now.

You men and women who can't get feeling right—who have headache, coated tongue, bad taste and foul breath, dizziness, can't sleep, are bilious, nervous and upset, bothered with a sick, gassy, disordered stomach, or have a bad cold.

Are you keeping your bowels clean with Cascarets, or merely forcing a passageway every few days with salts, cathartic pills or castor oil? Cascarets work while you sleep; cleanse the stomach, remove the sour, undigested, fermenting food and foul gases; take the excess bile from the liver and carry out of the system all the constipated waste matter and poison in the bowels.

A Cascaret to-night will straighten you out by morning—a 10-cent box from any drug store will keep your stomach sweet, liver and bowels regular, and head clear for months. Don't forget the children. They love Cascarets because they taste good—never gripe or sicken.

Comparative Returns.

The following figures show the comparative catch of codfish up to Oct. 9th in the different districts for the years mentioned, as now posted at the Board of Trade:

Prohibition Campaign.

The Prohibition Canvassing Committee held an enthusiastic meeting at their rooms in the Smallwood Building last night, Mr. William White presiding. The canvassers were appointed to their wards and streets and at 9 o'clock the leaders recently selected, with full committees, set out on the work of canvass. Over 300 canvassers are now engaged at this work and many satisfactory reports have already been received by the Committee.

At the general meeting in the T. A. Armoury there was a large attendance. Dr. H. M. Mosdell presided, and addresses were given by Hon. J. A. Robinson, and Mr. R. F. Horwood. Mr. W. White gave a brief report of the work done by the canvassers and moved a vote of thanks to the speakers of the evening. The vote was seconded by Mr. R. Callahan and carried by acclamation.

A meeting of the canvassers will be held at headquarters at 7.30 this evening and meetings of the Executive Committee will be held at 9.30 every night until the campaign is finished. To-morrow night there will be another public meeting at the T. A. Armoury and several prominent platform speakers will deliver addresses on Prohibition.

PERCIE JOHNSON.

WHY WOOD PULP EXPLOSIVE CAN'T BE USED.

"What's the use of cutting off the cotton supply when the Germans can use explosives made from wood pulp instead?"

That question is often asked, but not so often answered.

It's quite true that the powders for propelling shells can be made from wood instead of cotton, but the fact is that wood pulp explosives are not of the same strength as cotton explosives.

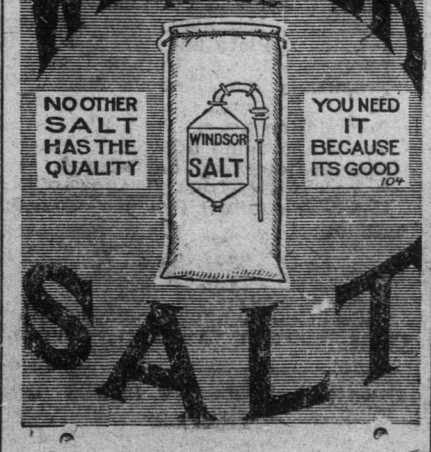

The result of this is that a shell fired with wood pulp explosive will not carry so far as one fired with cotton explosive. That means that all the existing range tables of the German guns are useless.

Not only that, but to make the German artillery carry as far as at present it would mean using a greater quantity of wood than cotton explosive, because the former is weaker.

This would mean larger propelling cartridges, and the alteration of the field and other big guns used by the Germans.

To alter the guns would be impossible during war, so though wood pulp explosive may be used, it is unlikely that it will be.

NINE ARRESTS.—The police were kept busy last night and up to midnight made nine arrests.

The Hygiene of Gas Lighting.

Incandescent gas is the ideal form of illumination for a living room. The soft yet brilliant light given off floods the room, and is restful both to the eyes and to the senses, preventing homelessness or sewing from being a source of eyestrain.

It has, moreover, been scientifically determined that the strong uprush of heated products of combustion from gas burners draws up the emanations from the skin and lungs of the occupants of the room, chars and sterilizes any accompanying germs, and, reaching the ceiling, diffuses through the plaster so rapidly as to draw fresh air from the windows and other openings.
