TRINITY.

When I was a boy I was taught to begin my letters to friends with the words: "I now take up my pen to drop you these few lines, hoping they will find you in good health, as, thank God, it leaves us all at present." That was easy enough to do, because I knew it all by heart. To continue the letter, however, was not so easy, and considerable time usually elapsed before anything else was written. I feel a good deal like that just now, after having taken up my reporter's pen again, and having written the word Trinity and underlined it for heavy capitals.

A friend who never misses an opportunity to be kind and helpful to me, kept an account of the names of visitors to Trinity during my absence, hoping that such information might be useful to me when I resumed my notes—and it was. In that list (which is now before me) I see the names of several old friends. I am sorry to have missed them and I am additionally sorry to have been deprived of publicly recording their presence in our midst, and of assuring them of the heartiest of welcomes to beautiful Trinity. It was more than kind of so many of them to leave a message for me, expressing sorrow at my absence, as well as an appreciation of my efforts to give the public a weekly message from Trinity. It was particularly so on the part of one who (while I was on my way back to Trinity) sent me the message "Oh Willie, we have missed you, welcome, welcome home." I am human enough to be pleased with such kind attentions, and common gratitude prompts me to acknowledge them here. I met a goodly number of old friends, and made some new ones on my way to and from Hantsport, N.S. I met for the first time, the Editor of the Evening Telegram. He too was on pleasure bent, and in his personal realization and expression of it, he added much to the pleasure of my traveling companions, and we were sorry to have to part with him at Port aux Basques. (Many thanks for remembrance. The pleasure of making the acquaintance of my Trinity reporter was equally mutual—Editor.) He kindly arranged to have the Evening Telegram sent to me whilst I was at Hantsport. The paper attracted considerable attention (even whilst in the wrapper) because of the unusual color. I was frequently asked why it was pink, and I usually replied, that probably it was blushing with shame at having to associate in transit with so many other daily papers in Nova Scotia, which, though barely half its size, were sold at five cents a copy, instead of the modest two cents of the Evening Telegram.

One of the most useful citizens of Hantsport, N.S., who, as the lessee of several hundred feet of glass houses, raises and supplies cucumbers, tomatoes, lettuce, and other early vegetables to Halifax, St. John's, Newfoundland, and other centres, is Mr. John Webb. He came to Nova Scotia from Crewekhorn, Somersetshire, England, and he told me that his next door neighbours at Crewekhorn, were the Pittmans; and that he had heard his father speak of some of that name having emigrated to Newfoundland long years ago. He was reminded of the smallness of the world, when I told him that these men had settled in Trinity, and that through their descendants, the name Pittman is still an honored one in our midst. He also told me that his uncle, William Webb is living somewhere in Newfoundland; and that he would be glad to get his address, which he thought was some part of Conception Bay. I promised to try and get the information for him. If any reader of the Telegram knows where Mr. Webb lives; or if this should come under Mr. Webb's notice, I shall be glad if he will communicate with me, and I will give him all the necessary particulars. (My address is Rev. Canon Lockyer, Trinity.) (Mr. William Webb of Rencontre, district of Burgeo and Lapolle comes from, I think, Somersetshire—Editor.)

Rev. Canon Smart spent a week in Trinity. In his official capacity as Rural Dean, and also as an official deputat from the Synod to speak to the parishioners on the subject of Christian Stewardship. In order that he might use up all his time with profit to some department of church work, he brought along his beautiful Stereopticon outfit, and on Friday evening he gave a deeply interesting and instructive lecture on China, with special regard to missionary work within its borders. The voluntary offerings that were taken up at the close of the lecture, were for the Canon Smith Student Scholarship at Queen's College. This lecture was also given at Trouty and Dunfield. On Sunday the Canon conducted the services at St. Paul's Church, and delivered forceful sermons on Christian Stewardship and missionary duties. On Sunday, 22nd, he will be in the upper parts of the parish. On these two Sundays, the Rev. Charles M. Stickings will do duty in the parish of Heart's Content. 25 years ago, Canon Smart was the incumbent of Trinity. In addition to the faithful spiritual work that he did during his years of service, the results of which Eternity alone will reveal, the fine parish hall in Trinity is a monument to his zeal and leadership. He is always a welcome visitor to the Parish.

The following gentlemen registered at the Garland Hotel last week:—Mr. Darcy, representing the Imperial Tobacco Company; Mr. Rose, and E. H. Hiseock, representing Magic Baking Powder; and C. R. Bagge, representing the Singer Sewing Machine.

Rev. Edmund Hunt and Mrs. Hur of the Mission of New Harbor, spent a few days in Trinity, and breathed enough of native air to keep them all the coming winter.

Mrs. William Benister of New

Hean is spending a pleasant holiday in Trinity, with her brother Mr. Geo. W. Gent. She too, has happy memories in this, her native place, and like all Trinitarians, she thoroughly enjoys an occasional visit.

Mrs. David Baird and little Miss Gordon of St. John's, are visiting Trinity, and are enjoying the old home life at the Anchorage.

Miss Molly Hiseock, after an absence of over two years spent in Scotland and the United States, is home again, and is looking well. We are glad to see them all, and to know how glad they are to get back to Trinity—even for a few weeks.

Schr. Lucille B. Creaser, belonging to Joseph Morris and others, went to Port Union last week to load fish for Barbados.

Term schr "General Plumber" came in last Saturday for orders.

The seeds of the horse chestnut and the oak that I brought from Nova Scotia last fall and sowed in the Cemetery in the spring, have grown satisfactorily. The oaks have grown more slowly than the chestnuts but they look more healthy to-day and will, I think, outstrip the chestnuts in time. I have brought some more with me this year and I shall be glad to send a few to anyone who may like to plant them, so long as they last.

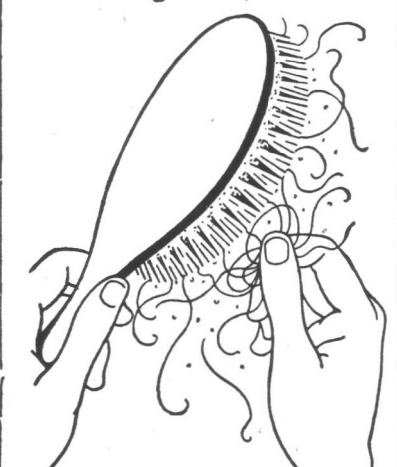

In spite of the bad times and the probabilities of a dull winter, socially, yet because of the coming of Mr. Sloan, we are in a more cheerful mood than we have been for some time. Mr. Sloan is Messrs. Ayre & Sons official instrument tuner, who came to Trinity at the request of the piano owners of the town. Mr. Sloan deeply impressed our people as one who thoroughly understands his work; and this, together with his quietly attractive personality, quickly won for him a high place in the estimation of those who had the pleasure of meeting him. In addition to the tuning done in private houses by Mr. Sloan, his technical knowledge of the pipe organ enabled him to do much that was necessary to the organ in St. Paul's Church. The good results of that work are realized and appreciated, not only by the organists, but also by the whole congregation.

Upon my return from Nova Scotia I found Mr. and Mrs. S. Grant, the Misses Grant and Miss Stella Lockyer home again from Blanc Sablon, one and all looking the better for their summer on the Continent. Mr. E. Grant has stayed behind for a few weeks to superintend some construction work. We are all pleased to hear of their "health and wealth" during the summer, and we wish them, together with ourselves, "a Godly, Righteous, and Sober Life" during the winter.

Miss Rachel Fowling, Telegraph Operator, spent an enjoyable holiday with sisters and friends in St. John's, and

FOOLISH TO LET HAIR FALL OUT

35c "Danderine" Saves Your Hair—Ends Dandruff! Delightful Tonic

Quick! Don't wait! Every bald head started with just a few falling hairs and a little dandruff—but soon the hair appeared thin, scraggly, and then the dreaded bald spot. It seems a sin to let hair fall out or tolerate destructive dandruff when you can quickly correct all such hair trouble with a bottle of delightful Danderine. Millions of men and women know the magic of Danderine; how it corrects oily, dandruff, itching scalps and helps the hair to grow long, thick, strong and luxuriant. Danderine is sticky or greasy. It is the largest hair corrective and tonic in the world because it is not a humbug! a bottle at any drugstore.

returned to Trinity and to duty last week.

After the electric storm that was felt so severely here during the latter part of September, one of the old headstones in St. Paul's Churchyard was found to be badly shattered; and unless some one can give a better reason for it, we shall believe that it was done by the electric fluid.

Mr. J. F. Lawrence, representing the Canada Paint Co., registered at Garland Hotel, and spent the weekend in the interests of his company.

Mrs. Maidment has been quite ill, but as I write she is improving.

Mr. John Brown, who has been working at Grand Falls, has moved his family there, and taken up his permanent residence. Good luck John.

ANSWERS TO CORRESPONDENTS.
J.C. Thank you for your inquiries re the paint that I mixed with sea water. Well, it has now been exposed to the sun, and all kinds of weather for nearly four months, and it is quite hard, looks well, and in every respect compares favourably with the ordinary paint, side by side with it. I am glad to know that after reading my article on the subject this summer, a man mixed several gallons of sea water with the paint that he used on the exterior of his stores and out-buildings; and that to date he is more than satisfied with results. Of course those who live longest will know most, and the condition of the paint a year from now, will be interesting.

G. Thank you for photo copies of Mary March, Trinity, the steamer "John McAdam" entering Trinity Harbour August 18th, 1842, and other subjects of the deepest interest to me and others. I remember, when I was a boy, having seen the old book (by Philip Toque) of which the originals of those photo copies formed a part. I should like to see it again.

Mystery Man.GIVES UNIQUE ENTERTAINMENT.

William Hamilton, who styles himself the "Mystery Man," gave his first public exhibition in the C.L.B. Armoury last night. There was a very large attendance. Many stunts of a strange nature were performed by Hamilton, and not even the keenest eyes in the audience could detect anything in the way of a fake. Hamilton's tricks consisted of such tricks as drawing a ribbon through his mouth and nose, turning himself into a human pincushion, swallowing a small coin and returning it through his nostrils, and several conjuring tricks, both interesting and defying exposure. His final stunt was to allow a nautical member of the audience to trust him up, and after a twenty minutes struggle, the Mystery Man contrived to free himself from many lengths of rope, which were knotted around his body. His last local exhibition will be given tonight as he leaves shortly, with his Manager, Mr. Bradbury, to fulfil an engagement at an American variety theatre.

Just Folks
By EDGAR A. GUEST.TO THE LITTLE BABY.

You know your mother—that's plain as day.
But those blue eyes of you seem to say
When I bend over your crib: "Now who are you?"
It's little figure I cut, I know.
And faces trouble a baby so.
But I'm the gladdest of all the glad—
Your dad!

You're two months old, and you see us smile,
And I know you are wondering all the while Whoever on earth can these people be
You see.
You've learned your mother; you know her well.
When hunger rattles the dinner bell,
But somehow or other you cannot place
My face.

As yet I'm but one of the passing throng,
The curious people who come along
And pause at your crib, and you seem to say
Each day:
"I know one voice that is sweet to hear,
I know her step when my mother's near,
I know her wonderful smile—but who are you?"

"You always come with the same old grin,
Your finger's rough when you tickle my chin,
But you run away when I start to cry,
And I don't understand when visitors call
Why you're so afraid they will let me fall;
You are the queerest of all the queer
Folks here!"

It's true that over your crib I stand
And tinkle your chin with my rough old hand;
And I run away when you start to cry,
But I have a right to my queer little funny
To boast your worth and to sound your praise.
For I'm the gladdest of all the glad—
Your dad.
