MONTREAL'S UNEMPLOYED

Demand that the Corporation Provide Work at $1 50 Per Day.

MONTREAL, Feb. 24.—A mass meeting was held at Sohmer Park yesterday, under the auspices of the Central Trades and Labor Council, for the purpose of drawing attention to the condition of the unemployed, and to point out how they might be benefited. Mayor Villeneuve was among those present.

Speeches were made by the president, P. J. Ryan, Wm. Darlington, T. W. Walsh and T. St. Pierere.

The following resolution was unanimously adopted:

"Be it resolved that we, citizens here assembled, employed and unemployed, do hereby call upon the city council of Montreal to at once furnish employment to all citizens desirous or in need of the same, and at a rate of wages not less than $1 50 per day, knowing as we do that it is impossible to live upon less.

"Further be it resolved that we view with repugnance and alarm the extravagant manner in which the money of the taxpayers is being squandered while the poor are starving, and we request that if under the present circumstances the city council cannot provide work at a living wage for famishing citizens they had better resign in a body and give the people an opportunity of sending others able to grapple with the situation and who will truly represent the feelings of the taxpayers as existing at present.

"Further be it also resolved that whereas there are citizens of Montreal without the necessaries of life we earnestly beg of those who are wealthy beyond their needs to come to the assistance of their unfortunate fellow-beings and give what assistance they can by giving employment or otherwise to the distressed."

The resolutions were unanimously carried by a standing vote, and the meeting, after receiving the thanks of President Ryan on behalf of the Trades and Labor Council, dispersed.

Captain Sweeney, U. S. A., San Diego Cal., says: "Shiloh's Catarrh Remedy is the first medicine I have ever found that would do me any good." Price 50c. Sold by W. T. Strong.

COOK'S
Model Maxims for Morning Meditation.

[The following lines are designed to be hung up in the bedroom, where the eye will fall on them on waking, and furnish an elevating theme for the mind to work on while the body is getting ready for its daily wrestle.—J. P. COOK.]

Whene'er the Cheap Jack lauds his wares
For quality and looks,
Young man, be wise, break through his snares,
And come straightway to COOK'S.

When some seductive shoeman
The dust from his goods has shook,
And promises you the earth, just scan
The shoes that are sold by COOK.

When in the shoes we sold you drest,
Your girl doth on you look,
Just draw her head down on your vest,
And give her one (*) for COOK.

When some smooth-spoken merchant man,
Doth salt you like a crook,
Remember everybody can
Rely on truth from COOK.

—Dr. De Costa will address a public meeting in Bishop Cronyn Hall tonight in the interest of the Y. M. C. A.

—The street railway company is buying new horses. Several teams were purchased on Saturday at good prices.

—Mr. and Mrs. Robert Blackwell, 250 Piccadilly street, leave on Tuesday for the Northwest, where they will make their home in future.

—McDonald, Fraser & Co., drygoods merchants, St. Thomas, have decided to place their affairs in the hands of Mr. R. C. Struthers, of London, in trust, for the benefit of the creditors.

—Fred Scott pleaded not guilty Saturday to the charge of stealing pens from the Park street school. He elected trial before Judge Edward Elliott, and will be brought up on Tuesday morning.

—On Thursday evening a social in aid of the poor will be given in the King Street Presbyterian Church. Every person attending will be expected to give as an admission fee at least one pound of provisions.

—Wm. Moyles will be tried by Judge Edward Elliotton Thursday for the alleged theft of a purse and $5 from Miss Emma Gyde, a Horton street store keeper. Moyles pleaded not guilty Saturday.

—Dr. Acland Oronhyatekha, who has been walking the hospitals of Europe for the past year, has arrived home for a short holiday. He will return in the course of a couple of weeks to pursue his studies.—[Toronto Globe.

—Ex-Ald. Joseph Martin, of Windsor, has entered a suit for damages against the London Fire Insurance Company and Loughlin Leech, inspector of the company. The sum claimed is $10,000, and the case will come up at the Essex Assizes next month.

—John Tomlinson, of Clarence street, has been summoned to appear before Police Magistrate Parke tomorrow. John Coote is the complainant. He alleges that Tomlinson was driving at an immoderate gait and came into collision with his (Coote's) rig, and damaged the harness to the extent of $11.

—Mr. F. W. Bell-Smith, the celebrated artist, and a former Londoner, was in Ottawa last week, the guest of the Governor-General. Mr. Bell-Smith is at present engaged in painting a picture illustrating the landing of the body of Sir John Thompson from the British warship Blenheim at Halifax, and his visit to Ottawa was in furtherance of that purpose. Mr. Bell-Smith was present at Halifax at the time of the funeral and took a number of sketches with a view to their more permanent transfer to canvas. Mr. Bell-Smith is fast developing with the first ranks of figure painters, and Londoners will be glad to know of the justly-earned success of a talented Canadian and former citizen.

—Mr. A. E. Miller, the Free Press reporter, who was alleged by Dr. Arnott to have broken faith with him by publishing a private conversation with that medical gentleman, after having secured the interview on a promise to use no part of it in the newspaper, writes denying Dr. Arnott's version of the affair. Mr. Miller asserts at great length that all he promised was not to reveal Dr. Arnott's name. The letter is not published by us because Mr. Miller broke through the first rule of every well conducted daily paper, in first sending his communication to the Free Press and then cutting it out and sending it to the ADVERTISER. This journal plays second fiddle to no other newspaper. No communication can be printed that is not received in time to be printed contemporaneously with its appearance in any other journal.

—East London Council, No. 25, C. O. C. F., has recently lost two of its members, Friends L. Fallis and Mrs. Baker. The former was one of its oldest friends, while the latter had belonged to the council for about a year and a half. On Tuesday evening last the officers handed to the beneficiaries the amount of their claims, settling each within sixteen days. The council meets in the East End Hall on the first and third Thursday. This is a live council with 155 members. Next evening of meeting there will be three initiations.

Sudden Death of Mrs. Symons.

The many friends of Mrs. Mary Ann Symons, 161 Maple street, will be pained and surprised to hear of her death, which occurred rather unexpectedly yesterday afternoon at her home. Mrs. Symons had been in poor health for some time, being troubled intermittently with Bright's disease, but had only been seriously ill a couple of days. On Sunday she was sitting around as usual, although far from well, having spent a couple of sleepless nights. Just after dinner she expressed a desire to see her own room once more, evidently feeling that death was near, and on being helped to the room sank on the bed and expired. The direct cause of death was dropsy of the lungs, combined with the Bright's disease. Mrs. Symons was a daughter of the late Nicholas Hendra, of Cornwall, England, where she was born on Nov. 21, 1824. She came direct to this city from the old country 53 years ago. Some time after she was married to her late husband, who preceded her to the grave 25 years ago, by the late Rev. Dr. Evans. During these many years she had been a consistent Methodist, and of late worshiped at the Queen's Avenue Church. She was a woman beloved by all who knew her, being of an affectionate and motherly disposition, and in her daily life had occasion to give a mother's care and advice to many young men who have been strangers in the city. Three daughters survive her: Mrs. Annie Olmstead and Miss Libbie Symons, at home, and Mrs. (Dr.) Shoults, of Centralia. Mrs. J. A. Mann, a sister, also resides here. The funeral takes place on Tuesday afternoon to Mount Pleasant Cemetery.

Her Arm Broken.

A runaway accident of a serious nature occurred yesterday afternoon on Queen's avenue at St. Paul's Cathedral. A horse attached to a cutter, in which sat a woman and a little girl dashed around the corner of Richmond street and ran among the trees on the cathedral ground. It ran through the deep snow, right up to the side of the church, where the cutter upset. The occupants were thrown out, and the horse dashed off with the shafts. Mr. Alf Hannah assisted the lady from the wreck, and it was found that her arm was broken. Mr. Sam Grigg, who had had a very narrow escape from collision with the runaway then drove up and took the lady, who proved to be Mrs. E. Shaef, 197 Mill street, to her home. The little girl was tossed about ten feet into a snowbank, and was uninjured.

Prefers to Trade with Advertisers.

I was walking up F street with Dr. Bedloe, the well-known Philadelphia wit and raconteur, the other evening, writes a Washington correspondent. He said he was going after a florist. I told him there were two nearer than the one he was looking for.

"I am seeking this man," said the doctor, "because he advertises in the newspapers."

"Cheap flowers?"

"Not at all; because the man who advertises in the newspapers is always up to the times, and he is easier to deal with. You laugh, but I tell you it's a fact. I have studied this over, and I know from personal experience. For the last few years of my life I've made it a rule never to deal with any business man who doesn't advertise. I wanted some flowers to send off in a box by mail, and I looked in the paper this morning for the advertisement of a florist. Now, you see, he wants to deal with me, else he wouldn't put that in the papers. I don't know any of the places here; but the rule is a good one, and I bet you anything you say that I can get what I want at this place, and get it cheaper than anywhere else, or at any flower place that keeps its name out of the newspapers. The business man who doesn't advertise almost invariably cheated me, on the theory, I presume, that I'd come there anyhow—or that his reputation was made and he could do what he pleased. I have always found such a man narrow-minded, selfish, non-enterprising, penny wise and pound foolish, even if he didn't cheat me outright."

Lively Runaway.

An exciting runaway accident happened yesterday morning, in which two young men, Thomas and Herbert Parks, 127 Carling street, narrowly escaped serious injury. The boys were driving north on Colborne street at a moderate rate, and claim that, on reaching the G. T. R. tracks, they were signaled to cross by the watchman. They had gone half-way over the crossing, when the watchman warned them to go back, as a train was approaching. The noise of the engine frightened the horse and it bolted ahead. The tracks were crossed safely, and the horse became uncontrollable. It turned west on York street, and Thomas Parks was rudely dumped in the road, but Herbert retained his seat. The animal took to the walk on the north side of the streets, and a large number of the boulevard posts at the old Union school were broken by coming in collision with the cutter. An elm tree at Waterloo and York streets proved too strong, for here the sleigh was completely demolished, and Herbert Parks was thrown out. The horse continued its career westward, jumping boulevards with the ease of a steeplechaser. The lines, however, became caught in such a manner at Mr. R. Northey's residence that the animal was turned into a lane and its pranks suddenly terminated. The boys were badly shaken up, but escaped with no bones broken. The horse received a number of cuts and scratches. Mr. Hunter, of South London, owned the outfit.
